LODGE OFFICER'S SUICIDE REVEALS HIS STRANGE LIFE

W. C. Reid, Prominent in Fraternal Orders and a Worker in Sunday School and Bible Class, Shoots Himself in Head at Bluegrass Hotel.

The death of W. C. Reid, who shot himself in the Blue Grass Hotel at 4040 Olive street after writing to his wife that he intended to end his life, has brought out numerous facts regarding his life the past year which tend to throw a light on his desire to end his life.

He was under charges in the I. O. O. F. accused of neglecting his wife. He was Noble Grand of his lodge and it is said that but for his high position the charges would have been preferred long ago. A short time before he shot himself he asked that a telephone message be sent to Mrs. Reeves of 509 North Spring avenue, referring to her as his wife.

Reid lived with his wife at 5983 Garfield avenue. They had been married for years and until a few years ago were quite happy. There were no children and husband and wife regretted this. About a year ago Mr. Reid suggested that they adopt a child.

The wife agreed and Mr. Reed took a baby boy about five months old to their home. The child was welcomed by Mrs Reid and she is still caring for it, loving it as fondly as though it was her own.

Mr. Reid was in the electrical business and was prosperous. He was an earnest church worker and was identified with the Y. M. C. A. Bible class, conducted by Judge Selden P. Spencer and with the Bible class of the Grand Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Farewell to Wife.

For the past few years Reid has not spent all of his time at his home. At times he would disappear for a few days or a week and would then return without tottering any explanation. Ten days ago Reid disappeared again. Nothing was heard from him for a week and then Mrs. Reid received a letter from him in which he said:

"My own darling wife: This is my last night on earth. One last word to you. When I left you last week you knew of my murderous intentions."

Tuesday morning, about the time this letter reached rMs.Reid, he reached the Blue Grass Hotel and registered his own name. He got a room and took breakfast. A gentleman was with him but left after breakfast.

Reid spent the day in his room and ate dinner at 6 p. m. At that time he called a bellboy and said: "Telephone to my wife, Mrs. Reeves, at 509 North Spring avenue, that I am at the Blue Grass Hotel. Tell her that I am all right but that I am drunk."

Reid gave the bellboy the telephone number and the message was sent though the clerk wondered that the man gave the name of his wife as Reeves while he had registered as Reid.

It was said at the rooming house at 509 North Spring avenue Thursday that Mrs. Reeves had gone to Chicago. She was described as a tall blond. It was also said that Reid had called there frequently to see Mrs. Reeves.

Tuesday Mrs. Reeves told the police that Reid had called on her, had asked her to agree to die with him and when she refused had threatened to kill her. She asked for protection.

Was Frequent Caller.

She said that Reid had been calling on her at intervals for some time, but that when she learned he was married she had told him to cease his visits and this had provoked his threat to kill her and end his life. A policeman went to the rooming house at the time, but Reid was gone. The policeman was told that two other roomers had taken him to a corner saloon, and bought him a drink, after which he became calm and went away quietly.

Mrs. Reid was sincerely devoted to her husband and her friends say that she has often said that she wanted to follow her husband in death. She has been watched closely since her husband's body was found in the Blue Grass Hotel Wednesday after the door was forced. She cared so much for her husband that she never insisted on explanations when he went away for a week at a time, and she did not find fault with him when he persistently ate many of his meals away from home.

PEORIA'S ILLEGAL SCHOOL ELECTION

Court Holds They Have Not Been Legal for Twenty-Five Years.

PEORIA, Ill., June 28.—Judge Worthington in the Circuit Court here this morning handed down a decision declaring that the election of members of the Peoria School Board has been illegal for the past 25 years.

The opinion is a result of proceedings brought to oust eight hold-over members of the board. There will be another election called immediately to select a new School Board. Failure to allow the City Council to call elections in the past was the basis of the decision.

SCHLEY-DANIELS.

Wedding Predicted in Spite of State Laws.

DENVER, Colo., June 28.—The arrival of Grant B. Schley of Moore & Schley, New York in Denver has started the report that the wedding of his son, C. B. Schley, and Mrs. Edith Daniels is to take place soon. Under the Colorado law, Mrs. Daniels, who was recently divorced from the head of a department store, cannot marry for a year.

But it is only 100 miles to Cheyenne, the capital of Wyoming, where there are no laws to interfere, and it is thought the wedding will take place there. Kenneth Schley, an uncle of the prospective bridegroom, is also in Colorado, which adds color to the rumor of an early wedding.

Some of Mrs. Daniels' friends say that she has not figured on leaving town at all. In some way a story has been whispered about which pictures a grand wedding at Mrs. Daniels' new home and the cutting of the Gordian knot by having a minister in, say Cheyenne, tie the nuptial knot by phone.

MAN'S BODY IS FOUND IN TREE IN MAPLEWOOD

Papers in Pocket Indicate That He Was Bernard Coakley of New York.

AROUND SUBURB 10 DAYS

He Had Been Drinking Heavily and While There Said His Name Was Dunn.

TOLD OF TRIP ABROAD

Seeming to Be Despondent While Speaking of Relatives in Ireland.

The body of a man was found hanging from a tree near Manchester and Bellevue avenues, Maplewood, Thursday morning. Hundreds of residents of the pretty suburb visited the scene before the body was cut down nearly three hours after it was found.

In the meantime the body had been identified as that of a man who had been living in Maplewood for 10 days and had given the name of J. D. Dunn. From papers found on the body and in the baggage the man left at his boarding house, he is believed to be Bernard Coakley of New York.

The body was found dangling from the limb of a tree suspended by a clothesline which had been thrice doubled and clumsily knotted. The man had strangled to death.

The rope had been tied to a branch about ten feet high. Scratches on the bark were taken to indicate that the man had climbed to the limb and jumped off after adjusting the noose.

The body was found by Paul Ziegler as he passed through the little wood on his way to the Suburban cars. He reported it to mounted policemen, but it was out of their territory and the body remained hanging from about 7 o'clock until 9:30, when Joseph F. Harrison cut it down and notified Coroner Koch.

The man had been in Maplewood only one week. On his arrival he visited a dentist, said his name was J. D. Dunn, and explaining that he was a stranger asked to be directed to a boarding house. He was sent to Mrs. Gravitt in Rosalind place and there he obtained board and lodging, paying a week in advance.

Had Been Drinking Heavily.

When around the house Coakley was unassuming even to timidity. He was there little except when sleeping, but in the periods when he remained away from the saloons he confided to Mrs. Gravitt that a short while ago he had visited his mother and sister in Dublin, Ireland, after an absence from the family homestead of six years.

He seemed somewhat affected when referring to these faraway relatives and would take up his hat and wander off to a saloon where he would drink heavily, not returning to his room until bedtime.

In the saloons, where he spent the most of his leisure, he talked considerably when sober, but was very quiet when in his cups. He said he was a whisky salesman and had just come from New York, having made that city his home since emigrating from Ireland six years ago.

He said he had acted as a bartender at times and shortly before he ended his life he applied to John A. Keaton, a saloon man, for a situation and was refused. He seemed well supplied with money and had no qualms about spending it.

At length his drinking habit became obnoxious to Mrs. Gravitt and Wednesday evening she informed him that he must seek other quarters. He received the rebuke calmly and walked out of the house.

Bought Rope After Rebuke.

He went to the hardware store of D. Lewis at 6942 Manchester avenue and purchased a long clothesline. Then he disappeared and was not seen again until his body was found swinging to the tree.

Coakley was apparently about 35 years old, weighed 170 pounds, had black curly hair and blue eyes and was 5 feet 8½ inches tall. His face was clean shaven, rather broad and round. When found he wore a black suit, dark blue shirt, black shoes and had on neither collar nor tie. His neck had been severely cut by the rope.

In a pocket was a passbook of the American Savings Bank, 205 Fifth avenue, New York, which showed that the depositor had a balance on Oct. 27 last of $15.

A card found in a pocket bore the name of Mrs. Bernard Coakley, 753 Third avenue, New York, and the man wore a gold ring with a setting inscribed "B. C." There were several samples of iron ore in his pockets.

Coroner Koch held an inquest and the jury returned a verdict of suicide.

PASTOR'S LITTLE GIRL WHOM THE MOTHER SEEKS TO RECOVER

GERTRUDE EARL HEWSON.

WOMAN WITNESS FAINTS IN COURT

Mrs. Louise Helfers Had Made Complaint Against Brother-in-Law.

ASKED FOR CONTINUANCE

Negro Who Disobeyed Summons and Defendant Fined for Contempt.

When compelled to take the witness stand in a case where she had obtained a warrant for the arrest of her brother-in-law on the charge of assault and battery, Mrs. Louise Helfers, wife of Henry Helfers Jr., of the Kessler-Helfers Hat Co., fainted and fell on the floor in Judge Moore's courtroom at noon Thursday. The fashionably dressed woman was carried into the Judge's office and after she had revived was taken to her home, 1734 Wash street.

The alleged attack on Mrs. Helfers was committed in her own home May 22, the sworn statement in the warrant being that Schurr "choked the plaintiff and threw her down the stairway." Arthur Smith, a negro, of 417 South Ewing avenue, who was employed about the house at the time of the assault, was named as a witness.

The case had been set for trial several time and been postponed with trivial excuses, on several occasions it being stated by the plaintiff's attorney that Smith could not be gotten into court.

Attachment for Witness.

Judge Moore became angry when the same excuse was offered again Thursday and issued an attachment which resulted in the negro being brought into the court by a deputy sheriff.

"Why have you not answered the subpena of this court?" demanded Judge Moore.

The negro hesitated a moment, but was urged. Then he said:

"I didn't come because Mr. Helfers told me I would not need to come, that it was all settled."

"You are fined $10. Mr. Clerk issue a citation that Mr. Helfers may be brought here forthwith."

The court rested until an officer entered with Mr. Helfers. The Judge, arraigned the merchant, told him of the testimony given by the negro and declared that any attempts to settle cases out of court in such an outrageous manner would be met with punishment.

He fined Helfers $25 and said: "Now we will go on with this case. Mrs. Helfers, you will take the witness stand."

The attorneys arose as if to enter an objection. Mrs. Helfers paled and fell back when she started to arise.

"Take the stand, please, Mrs. Helfers," said Judge Moore.

Confused and unsteady, Mrs. Helfers gained her feet and made several steps in the direction of the witness chair. Suddenly she stopped, made an attempt to raise her hand as if in protest and fell limp and unconscious within a few feet of the witness chair.

She was carried into the Judge's private office. Judge Moore later announced that as the chief witness was too ill to testify, he would dismiss the case against Schurr on payment of costs. Mr. Helfers paid his own fine and that of the negro, Smith.

SAID HE WAS THE BETTER

Just as ununiformed Probationary Patrolman Edward Fitzgerald peeled off his coat and removed his revolver, at the same time telling Probationary Patrolman Joseph Omohundro, who was in uniform, to do the same and he would prove which is the better policeman, Sergt. O'Meara happened along, took Fitzgerald in tow and landed him in the Deer Street Station, where he was suspended by Capt. O'Malley.

Both probationaries have been on the force about one month. They met at Euclid avenue and Natural Bridge road Thursday morning. Fitzgerald was off duty and Omohundro was on his beat. They argued as to their qualities as policemen, each claiming the distinction of being superior to the other. hen it was that Fitzgerald declared his intention of "licking" Omohundro.

Fitzgerald will have the opportunity of proving to the Police oBard his efficiency in orally defending himself.

MISSOURIAN SHOOTS WIFE AND HIMSELF

Bodies Found in St. Joseph Residence Three Days After Tragedy.

NOTES SHOW JEALOUSY

Traveling Salesman and Beautiful Woman Found Dead in Bed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 28.—The bodies of Albert Beattles and his wife were found today in bed at their home on South Eleventh street. The position of the bodies indicated that Beattles, who was a traveling salesman for the Hammond Packing Co., had shot his wife and then himself.

They had been dead since Monday night. Letters found in the house indicated that Beattles was jealous of his wife. She was a beautiful young woman.

CROSS-EXAMINES WIFE'S WITNESS

G. B. Texier, Divorce Defendant, Questions Her Father and Sister.

When the divorce suit of Mres. Emma Texier against G. B. Texier, set down for hearing on Judge McDonald's default docket Thursday, was called the husband, who had fined no answer to his wife's charges, appeared at the counsel table. He cross-examined witnesses who testified for his wife, the Court granting him permission to do so.

The dozen witnesses for the wife, who went up to Clerk McNamee's desk to be sworn, were surprised to see that Texier was right behind them and the wife was none the less astonished.

All through his wife's testimony, Texier sat mute, watching the countenance of the Judge and closely scrutinizing the woman. When Mrs. Texier had finished her testimony, her husband did not express any desire to cross-examine her, but when her sister, her brother and father, Henry Goedeke, of 2903 Wyoming street, followed Mrs. Texier on the witness stand, he asked permission to cross-examine them. When Judge McDonald learned that the man was the husband and defendant in the suit he was allowed to do so.

Goedeke testified that he was afraid of his son-in-law. During the cross-examinations Texier attempted to bring out the fact that when he was late getting home it was because he had been detained at the office.

At the time of the separation, several months ago, little Clements Texier, 2-year-old son of the couple, disappeared and was later found by Private Detective A. L. Chamblin and restored to his mother while habeas corpus proceedings for the possession of little Clements were pending.

Dr. Teichmann Appointed.

Dr. William C. Teichman expects to leave about Aug. 1 for Elbenstock, Saxony, to assume charge of the American Consulate there, his nomination having been sent to the Senate by the President Wednesday. The nomination had been assured for several days, as the examination of Dr. Teichmann was among the best passed by any applicant for a post position in the consular service. Dr. Teichmann is a practical chemist, having served as City Chemist six years under Mayors Walbridge and Ziegenhein.

MRS. HEWSON GOES TO LAW TO GET DAUGHTER

Wife of Minister Applies for Writ of Habeas Corpus Against Him.

WOMAN IS ALSO NAMED.

Court Asked to Include Miss Fannie Sleight in the Order.

SAYS CHILD WAS STOLEN.

Mother Declares Little Girl Was Taken Without Her Knowledge

Mrs. Gertrude Hewson, wife of Pastor Earl Hewson of the Reber Place Congregational Church, brought habeas corpus proceedings in the Circuit Court Thursday to get possession of little Gertrude Earl Hewson, the 2½-year-old daughter of the couple. The child is at present with her father at his boarding place, the home of Miss Fanny Sleight of 2739 Dalton street. Mrs. Hewson is staying with her aunt, Miss Amanda Farnsworth of 3609 Finney avenue.

Attorneys Chas. P. and Loomis C. Johnson represent Mrs. Hewson.

The habeas corpus proceedings mark the opening of the second chapter in the story of the marital unpleasantness between the pastor and his wife.

They were married Sept. 6, 1900, and separated April 28 last, the day after Easter Sunday.

Pastor Hewson, who has said that he will file a suit for divorce at the October term of the Circuit Court, says his young wife deserted him on that day and Mrs. Hewson makes the same charge against her husband.

In the habeas corpus petition, filed Thursday, Mrs. Hewson charges that on the day of separation she went to the home of Mrs. Ida Weddendorf, in Sappington, St. Louis County, at the solicitation and on the advice of her husband, and says she took Gertrude with her.

Pastor Hewson admits that she went to the Weddendorf home, but says she went voluntarily, saying to him that she would not return.

During her absence, Mrs. Hewson charges, her husband sold their household goods and relinquished their Reber place home and later notified her that he did not intend to live with her again.

Says Husband Took Girl.

Mrs. Hewson says that upon receipt of this information she made arrangements to return to St. Louis and came in to the city to talk over the matter with her aunt, Miss Farnsworth. She says she left Gertrude with Mrs. Weddendorf, saying that she would return for the child and charging Mrs. Weddendorf not to deliver Gertrude to Mr. Hewson's custody under any circumstances.

Pastor Hewson, his wife alleges, went to Sappington and got Gertrude, taking her to his boarding place, three blocks from where the pastor and his wife lived before their separation. The wife avers that the child is being cared for by Miss Fannie Sleight and by other persons unknown to the mother and states that none of the persons now in charge of the child are proper persons to care for Gertrude. She avers that she now has a good, permanent home with her aunt and asks that the child be given her.

The petition asks that the writ, ordering the child be brought into court, be directed against Pastor Hewson and Miss Fannie Sleight.

The mother charges that she has not been allowed to see her child and claims that Gertrude is being restrained of her liberty. She states in her petition that she fears the lack of proper care and attention will result in injury to the health and affections of the child.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Hewson went to the Sleight Home, she says, and was refused permission to talk with her daughter. At that time, she says, the child was at play in the yard and when the mother took her up to caress her Miss Fannie Sleight interfered and took Gertrude into the house.

KEPT "PAPA" FROM CAGE.

Girl's Cries in Court Save Man From Indignity.

The cries and tears of pretty 19-year-old Ethel Baker kept her father, Abraham Baker, from the prisoner's cage of the City Hall Police Court Thursday until friends could be found who paid his fine for obstructing a Laclede avenue car.

The girl and her sister, Amelia, sat with the spectators and were seemingly deeply interested all through the trial of their father. Suddenly the Judge said: "I fine the defendant $10." A big man took Baker by the arm and started with him towards the prisoners' cage.

The girl understood at once that they were going to put her father in the cage. She leaped from her seat and ran to the rail dividing the courtroom, crying: "Papa, papa, what are they going to do to you?"

Chief Deputy Marshal Erb cried out: "Buck, don't put that man in the cage. Give him the chair at my desk. That girl will faint if you put him in there. Leave him out here until someone pays his fine. He won't run away."

Judge Tracy reduced the fine to $5. Baker is a junk dealer at 1117 Morgan street.

Black of York for Lieutenant Governor, William T. Creasy of Columbia for Auditor General, and John J. Green of Philadelphia for Secretary of Internal Affairs.

GRAND JURY TAKES UP INVESTIGATION OF THE ICE TRUST

Circuit Attorney Sager Orders His Assistant, Mr. Fickeissen, Who Studied the Ohio Prosecutions, to Summon Witnesses and Begin the Inquiry at Once.

ICE MAGNATE SAYS PRICE WON'T ADVANCE

Charles W. Whitelaw Denies His Company, the Polar Wave, Is in Trust, but Says It Controls 50 Per Cent of Local Business and Is Growing.

Investigation by the grand jury of the Ice Trust in St. Louis will begin Thursday afternoon. Circuit Attorney Sager has ordered his assistant, Mr. Fickeissen, who studied the Ice Trust prosecutions in Ohio, to take charge of the inquiry and begin the examination of witnesses at once.

Gov. Folk while in St. Louis Wednesday discussed the ice investigation with Mr. Sager. Before returning to Jefferson City he said the fight on the trust had begun in Kansas City and that the authorities in many other towns were ready to begin.

President Charles W. Whitelaw of the Polar Wave Ice Co., which controls 50 per cent of the ice business of St. Louis, announced Thursday that there would be no further increases in the price of ice this summer. He denied that his company was in any trust or combine.

"Nothing is more dangerous to the public welfare than a trust formed to control the price of ice," said Gov. Folk to a Post-Dispatch reporter, after his conference with Mr. Sager:

"Such an unlawful combination affects the poor more than all others. It causes increased suffering among the unfortunates in our hospitals ho are so dependant on ice for relief during the hot summer months.

"Under the Missouri laws an Ice Trust is just as illegal as any other commercial combine. While our statute, unlike that in Ohio under which several Toledo ice magnates have been sent to Jail for a year, does not provide a criminal penalty, yet the fines that may be imposed would be sufficient, in my judgment, to prevent a continuance of these extortionate practices.

"For each and every offense the statute provides a fine of $100.

"I received word Tuesday that the Prosecuting Attorney of Kansas City had taken steps there to break up the combine of ice dealers."

Mr. Whitelaw's Explanation.

Mr. Whitelaw, in discussing the investigation with a Post-Dispatch reporter said:

"I have no connection with any other concern in St. Louis that handles ice. The Polar Wave is a large company, and it keeps growing. Surely there is nothing wrong with a business growing, is there? We have many branches throughout the city, and we control only the prices for ice sold at our branches, or by our wagons.

"We have no agreement, secret, tacit, or in any other way with any other concern in St. Louis that sells ice in any quantity. In 1903, the Polar Wave Co. absorbed several other concerns. It was a straight business proposition, and there was no secret about it. We placed our sign over the doors of the places we bought, and every wagon that sells our ice for us is a big, bright yellow wagon, with our name and trademark on it, so that there can be no misunderstanding as to the owner. We are proud of the growth of the business and the success that has come to us.

"Merchants a Competitor."

"As to there being a combination between us and the Merchants' Co. or the Consumers', it is absolutely untrue. The Merchants' is, perhaps, the hardest competitor we have. They are trying to get our business and we try to get theirs.

"We sell the Consumers' their supply of ice, probably the most of it. They have heretofore dealt almost altogether in natural ice. This year there is no natural ice, and before the season opened Mr. Wall came to me and asked me if I would take care of him. I answered I would, and he wanted to make a contract.

"'I cannot make a contract, Mr. Wall,' I replied. 'I will sell you ice at the market price as long as I have the ice to spare. There is a coal strike on hand now and there is no telling where prices will go. The Consumers' company now gets ice of us at the market price.'

"Mr. Whitelaw, it has been said that the Ice Trust last year declared a dividend of 150 per cent, and that a large sum in addition was placed in a sinking fund for use in conducting the business of the trust this year, and that the first step of the trust this year was to raise the prices. Is this true?"

"No. Of course, the Polar Wave made some money last year. But we worked for it, and the dividend was not large on the amount of money we have invested

WHERE ICE BARONS ARE ON THE RUN.

St. Louis—Gov. Folk orders prosecutions.
Kansas City—Prosecutions begun.
Toledo—Five sentenced to Workhouse and fined $2000 each.
Philadelphia—Suits to be instituted against 12. Arrests to be made this week.

PHILADELPHIA WILL ARREST ICE BARONS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—District Attorney Bell announced today that he would begin suit against the Ice Trust and allied companies as soon as he could complete the investigation he began a week ago. In all 13 men, representing as many companies, are being investigated. Arrests probably will be made this week.

The investigation is the direct outcome of numerous complaints made through the newspapers of the exorbitant charges of the Ice Trust. The price of ice is now treble that at which it sold prior to the first meeting of the Ice Exchange in March last. It was then increased $1 a ton and two subsequent advances make the wholesale price now $5 a ton to dealers. The price to housekeepers has more than doubled. P. J. Ritter, president of the exchange, resigned rather than abide by the prices.

In his investigation the District Attorney found that a committee of six men in the Ice Exchange make the prices in secret and placed them before the exchange for ratification. He has obtained evidence that the exchange sent unsigned cards to the ice dealers, making an arbitrary price at which they were forced to sell.

TOLEDO ICE MEN MAY BE PARDONED.

TOLEDO, O., June 28.—All the victory gained over the Ice Trust will probably be lost, as a majority of the local Pardoning Board disagrees with the Court's verdict and will probably release the convicted dealers as soon as they reach the Workhouse.

Miller, Bard, Lemmon, Breining and Wattera, the Ice Trust men, are still in prison, but great pressure is being brought to obtain their freedom. They are held in Jail by a ruse of the father of one, pending motions for a modification of the sentence, but it is believed they will be compelled to go to the Workhouse today.

A heretofore unlooked for contingency has arisen. It seems to spell victory for the men. The Board of Pardons, which is composed of the Board of Public Service, is being importuned to come to the relief of the men. It is not believed that the board will permit the convicted ice men to remain in the Workhouse more than a very few days at the most.

It was not generally known that the directors of public service have absolute power of paroling prisoners.

President Oscar Sabin believes the icemen should be imprisoned. Messrs. Tonson and Jackson, the other members of the board, are inclined to view the situation from the opposite point. Hence, if the icemen are sent to the Workhouse they will probably be free within a very few days.

"I am not in favor of paroling the icemen until the trust is completely busted," said Sabin, when the fact of the absolute power of the board in paroling was impressed upon him. "Just think of the graft. If a man wanted a few pounds of ice he would have to buy a $5 ticket. This is but one of the offenses that should result in punishment."

George Tonson, who always says what he thinks without reserve, declared the sentence excessive. "I don't expect the men will go to the Workhouse. When they do it will be time to say something. I do not think, however, that the men are deserving of such criminal punishment as a workhouse sentence would be."

While Joseph Jackson was loath to commit himself, he intimated that he would not favor keeping the icemen in the Workhouse.

PRISONER WHO ESCAPES SHOT AS HE SWIMS

Lemuel Gray Recaptured After Dashing From Quarry at Workhouse.

RIOT GUN IN SERVICE

Guard Takes Good Aim Twice as Current Bears Man Away.

Lemuel Gray, a Workhouse prisoner, tried to escape by plunging into the Mississippi River in the hope of swimming to the Illinois shore Thursday. He gained nearly the middle of the stream and had been swept down four blocks before Guard Bernard Conroy shot him twice and Guard McGrath carried him to shore in a skiff. Many heavy shot were imbedded in Gray's face and neck.

The prisoner had been working in the Workhouse quarry. He was near the river's edge and suddenly made a dash for the water. Before his custodians were aware of his act, he had pushed himself out into the stream with vigorous strokes, and was rapidly forging out and down when Guard Conroy spied him.

Fired With a Riot Gun.

Conroy fired twice in the air with a riot gun, but Gray heeded him not. Then the guard, fearing the prisoner would get away, aimed carefully and fired again, the buckshot load hitting Gray in the neck. Still he did not stop and Conroy reloaded and shot again, the swimmer being struck in the face.

Meantime Guard McGrath had leaped into a skiff and pulled energetically after Gray, who was weak from his wounds, but would not return to shore. The guard caught him, dragged him into the boat and returned to the bank.

Gray was taken to the South Side Dispensary, where Dr. Vogel picked a number of heavy shot from the prisoner's face and neck and sent the wounded man to the City Hospital.

Gray is a strapping Texan, about 32 years old. He and a companion came to St. Louis from San Marcos, Tex., a few weeks ago, and Gray posed as an electrician. He is accused of going to residences, presumably to do small electrical repairs, and robbing them while in this guise.

Sentenced for Larceny.

The man had been confined in the Workhouse only a few days. He was alleged to have been implicated with a companion in the robbery of Mrs. Bettie Knowles' home at 3008 Locust street and sentenced to one year's imprisonment for larceny.

An information was also issued, accusing him of robbing the house of Mrs. Momo Kelly, 3028 Locust street, and he will be tried on this charge when he completes his present Workhouse term.

Medical Tests for Automobilists!

The latest from France says:

"No one will in future be granted a license who is not able to prove, in addition to the possession of the necessary technical knowledge, exemption from any physical infirmity which would tend to involve unfitness for the control of a car."

THIS MEANS:

That a medical examination must be submitted to before a motorist can be licensed!

That the driver, whether paid chauffeur or amateur, must have good eyesight, acute hearing, steady hand, strong nerves, mental balance and the reasonable assumption is that any one who can not pass the necessary medical examination is no more properly qualified to steer a motor-car than a color-blind ship's captain to assume responsibility for the safety of his vessel or a deaf engine-driver of his train."

However, St. Louis is not France, and the foregoing piece of news is given merely for the information of St. Louis' motorists, present and prospective.

MRS. VINTON, WHOSE TRUNK HELD MEN'S LETTERS TO "BESSIE DALE"

TWO SCORE GUILELESS MEN LAVISHED LOVE ON "BESSIE DALE"

Letters Found in Trunk of Mrs. Vinton, Arrested With Her Husband, Tell of Matrimonial Hopes and of a Few Advances of Money Which Made Wooers a Bit Nervous.

Letters found Thursday in the room of Mrs. Rose Vinton, who with her husband, Charles Vinton, was arrested at 502 North Fifteenth street, Wednesday evening, indicate that 30 or 40 men have been paying court to a mysterious "Bessie Dale," taking her to places of amusement, spending money for her entertainment, each of them in the belief that he was going to marry her, and each thinking himself the one and only object of her undying affection.

Some of the letters indicate that the writers had advanced money to the object of their love in an effort to help her out of some mysterious trouble. According to the dates of the letters, the decention was carried on for nearly a year.

The letters are all addressed to Miss Bessie Dale, 502 North Fifteenth street. Some are in reply to matrimonial advertisements, other are written by men who inserted matrimonial ads and received replies from "Bessie Dale." Mrs. Vinton declares that she is not "Bessie Dale."

Recently Chief of Police Gillaspy received complaints from several of the letter writers. They stated to the Chief that they doubted the sincerity of Miss Dale. They did not believe she was looking for a husband, but just wanted some one to spend money on her.

Mrs. Vinton says she in turn gave the letters to Miss Dale who, she says resided with her until a few days ago.

Following are several of the letters taken from the trunk, and typical of all the correspondence:

Harvard Man, Bohemian.

Letter written on Hotel Jefferson stationery:

MAY 28, 1906.

Dear Miss Bessie—I received your note today and it pleased me very much. If you fulfill my requirements to the T, you are the girl I am looking for. I don't see any reason why we shouldn't make a good team. At any rate, I'll meet you half way. And further, I liked your note. it had the right ring to it.

Now, you may not like me at all. I am fair, weigh 140 pounds, 5 feet 10 inches tall. I am not as "handsome as Apollo," but I guess I look like a gentleman and am one; though I am a man and can be a lover, too.

Oh, I forgot to tell you I am 36, at least so the record says, but my heart is a great deal younger, and I have crammed a good deal into those years, college bred, Harvard, and travel in this country and Europe, so I am somewhat of a Bohemian, and I think I know how to have a good time with the right girl. Are you she? Indeed I hope so, for I am detained for some time here, and don't know surbody in the blooming town.

I expect to be in the hotel all afternoon tomorrow. Couldn't you come down to the ladies' reception room and send up for me? The maid will get me. But telephone me in the morning. Do, and we'll fix it up. Looking forward with great pleasure to meeting you. I am Yours sincerely, E. F. W.

Couldn't Stop Him.

EAST ST. LOUIS, April 27, 1906.

Dear Friend Bessie—I will write to let you know that I am still in the land of the living, but have had lots of trouble since I saw you. I was taken away Monday and charged with—well I will tell you the next time I see you. I have spent $200 in one week. I will do for any other girl as I did for her. Well, will say no more about it. Would to see you the 30th and go to the show in East St. Louis if you are not engaged for that night. Write me care of general delivery, East St. Louis. E. M.

55, But Not So Old.

General Delivery.

Dear Miss—Yours of the 9th to hand this morning. Was glad to hear from you. I am 55 years old and gray, but feel no older than I did 30 years ago. I think I fully understand you and am willing to do my share. Will you take dinner with me some evening and if so, which cafe do you prefer? Yours respectfully, A. J. J.

Higher Walks for Him.

Grand Pacific Hotel, Chicago.

Dead Madam—In answer to your ad, I will state that I believe from what your ad reads I would suit you. I am a college man and well-versed in law, also one who has walked in the higher walks of life. I have had many prominent positions having served as cashier of the ——— Labor Bureau. I will state further when I hear from you. Hoping to be favored with a reply, I remain,

E. M., Laclede Building.

Mystery in This Note.

The following letter is unsigned:

Dear Bessie—I arrived home safely, but very tired from my visit out to the Highlands. I waited and looked for you, but saw nothing of you, so just hiked out to the park by my lonely. Well, how did you come out with your little trouble? Did you have sufficient money to pull you through? I was greatly worried, and wished several times that you had not told me anything about it. You must be careful in the future and play your cards better.

How did you enjoy yourself Friday night? For myself I was delighted. You were the prime factor in the evening's enjoyment and you played your part to perfection. Now, really, what do you think of me? You have never expressed yourself fully. I have no objections, you may write 100 sheets, if it takes that many to tell it. Now, you certainly can find a little time to write and I want to hear from you often.

Here's a Place to Meet.

Dear Miss Dale—Your interesting note is before me and I appreciate all you say. It would be too public to meet in front of the general delivery window and I suggest 2:30 o'clock in the passageway at the Ninth street entrance at the Postoffice. Very few people are ever around there and if you will hold this letter in your hand I will know it is Bessie Dale. Then we will be at once acquainted. Truly yours. E. K. W., General Delivery.

P. S.—If for any reason we fail to meet on Friday, I hope you will write and make another engagement. I hope to see those black eyes Friday.

"Ha! Ha!" He Writes.

Dear Bessie—I have been patiently waiting for an answer, but as yet I have not received any. I hope you are not sick. Maybe that last letter was a "knocker" to answer. Ha! Ha! Well, if that is true, as soon as I see you I will explain the secret more fully. Here it is four days and no reply. No, Bessie, if stamps are a hindrance I will send you a book and you will have them always at hnd.

Yours lovingly, C.

Sure Sign of Love.

Miss Bessie Dale. Dear Friend—I must have fallen in love with you at sight, for I have been thinking about you all day and want to see you Sunday. I will meet you at the southeast corner of Thirteenth and Locust, on the Cathedral steps, at 3 in the afternoon or 7 in the evening. If they don't pay off Saturday I will try and borrow some money.

Yours lovingly, FRANK.

Strictly Business This.

Dear Madam—Having seen your ad, I think I am the man you desire. I am a business man, of 34, good-looking and good habits. Please write and give name and address, or arrange a meeting place. Would like to meet you Saturday afternoon at 2:30 sharp in the Postoffice, on the Eighth street side. I will wear a blue serge suit or a light suit with sailor hat. I am 5 feet 11 inches tall, 180 pounds, clean shaven, dark hair and complexion. Will hold a newspaper in my left hand, and will open lock box ——— at 2:30 sharp. Your friend. F. C.

He's Good and True. Yes.

Dear Friend—I read your ad today, and would be pleased to make your acquaintance. Am an elderly man, good and true, and will suit you. Please write when and where I can meet you, and I will tell you more about myself. F. L., Third and Washington.

Sober, Yet Would Wed.

Replying to your ad inclosed, I do not quite know what is meant by assist financially and will await further explanation. In the meantime advise that I am a middle-aged, refined, educated, sober gentleman and am anxious to marry soon. I have a good clerical position. If interested, address me. J. P. S., Lincoln Trust Building.

No Frenzied Finance Here.

Extracts from a long letter (evidently in reply to note asking money):

I am just a country jake, but no doubt you will notice that I have got two grains of common horse sense. I don't care for money. All I want is a good wife. But don't be sure of that, as I believe that money will buy me most anything in the wide world, and when I invest any considerable amount it must be on something stronger than upon the promises of a stranger. I am sure you will not care to see me again after you get this, but if you do I will meet you at Vandeventer Station, Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock, and if you don't come I will understand it is all off. No more at present. R.

A Little Shy on Looks.

Seeing your ad and wishing to make the acquaintance in this city, I take the liberty to write you. I am 35 years old, 5 feet 10, 155 pounds, but I cannot brag on my good looks. I am a mechanic. Would be pleased to hear from you if you care to make the acquaintance of a man of my ability and position. T. O., General Delivery.

Come Right to the Office.

Dear Miss Dale—I have your nice little letter in answer to my ad, and must say that I am very much pleased at the prospects of an early meeting. I cannot say that I am a very religious sort of a person and still I am not a villain. I just like to have a good time and be with some nice and agreeable girl who can share the good things with me.

I am much too bashful to flirt with a girl on the street and that is the reason that I inserted the ad. I am engaged in business, with an office in the Ozark Building, and usually have a part of the afternoon and all of the evening to dispose of as I see fit. You know what that means—parks, theaters, etc. Will you please arrange for an interview. You can call at the office with perfect freedom, and I believe that would be better than meeting at some other place. If you do call it would be better to ring up and ascertain if I am in. I feel sure that you and I will have many good times together, and, trusting to meet you at an early date, I am, very truly yours. N. J. B., Ozark bldg.

Can Judge His Looks.

Dear Lady—I see your ad and take the liberty to answer. I am a man past 50 years old, with an income, and if I do say it myself, am a good man. I don't drink, chew or smoke. I am considered a first-class business man, and love a good home and also a good woman. I am light complected and eyed, and weigh 175 pounds, and am counted a good-looking man. But you can be the judge of that. I am from Chicago and have only one child. I am visiting here in the city for a short time. I want to go into business here if I can get a good lady for a wife. J. J.

WOMAN TELLS HOW HUSBAND SHOT HIMSELF

Intfeld Is in City Hospital and Doctors Say He Can't Live.

Bullet Took Downward Course That Is Unusual If Self-Inflicted.

The police are investigating the mysterious shooting of John Intfeld at his home, 704 Lafayette avenue, Wednesday evening. Intfeld is at the City Hospital with a bullet wound in his left temple and hospital physicians say he cannot live. His wife says she was the only witness of the shooting.

She was sitting about the middle of the front room of the house, she says, and her husband was sitting on the doorstep. They were quarreling and he suddenly drew a revolver from his hip pocket and fired a shot into his brain.

Two other members of the Intfeld family have said that they were in the house at the time the shots were fired. Their stories told on various occasions conflict with each other and with the stories told by Mrs. Intfeld.

Tells of Quarrels.

Mrs. Intfeld's story of the events that led up to the shooting, as told to a special policeman who is investigating the case, is as follows:

"A man about whom my husband and I had frequently quarreled, was in the neighborhood of our home Wednesday, and I saw him at the saloon at Broadway and Lafayette avenue and quarreled with him about his interference in our family affairs. He had been drinking at that time.

"Later in the evening my husband came home. He had also been drinking. We quarreled at the supper table and later, after he had been out of the house and had returned, we quarreled again.

"We were in the front room alone. I was sitting about the middle of the room in a rocking chair and my husband was sitting in the door. Suddenly he drew a revolver from his hip pocket and shot himself."

When seen later at her home by a Post-Dispatch reporter Ethel Intfeld said she did not see the shooting and knew nothing of how it occurred.

Miss Elsie Miller, Mrs. Intfeld's sister, says she was in the room at the time of the shooting but did not see it. She says she was behind the door at the time. She gave no explanation to the policeman who asked her why she had gone behind the door.

At the time of the shooting Intfeld's two sons, Gilbert, aged 4 years, and Milton, 8, were playing in front of the door. Across the street a number of boys were sitting on a bread box in front of 701 Lafayette avenue watching the boys playing.

Johnnie Pittlich, 10 years old, one of the boys who was across the street, says Mr. Intfeld was watching his sons play. The younger had a bun and the older was trying to take it from him. The baby had just appealed to its father, young Pittlich says, when he heard a shot and saw Mr. Intfeld fall back into the doorway. He did not at any time see a revolver in the hands of the man. The shot, he said, sounded as if it had come from within the house.

When Mrs. Mary Pittlich, who lives at 700 Lafayette avenue, heard the shot she ran at once to the Intfeld home. On her way she met Jacob Miller, Mrs. Intfeld's brother, and asked him why he did not go in to see what was the matter. She says he replied that it was none of his business.

Miller is a painter and was formerly employed by Intfeld. A year ago they had trouble and a fist fight between them was the result. Later they became reconciled and Miller was re-employed. A short time ago they had another difficulty and Miller was again discharged.

The police have been unable to find either Miller or the man mentioned by Mrs. Intfeld, who are wanted to help clear up the mystery.

COMMISSION FOR BRIDGE LOCATION

Secretary of War Will Get Report on Selection of Site.

Maj. Thomas Casey, local chief of the corps of engineers, United States Army, with headquarters in the Federal Building, declares that his part in the construction of the Free Bridge across the Mississippi will be played after some commission, chosen to deliberate on the point of location and plans of construction, has done its work and the plans shall be submitted to the Secretary of War.

"The commission will choose the place it desires for the location of the bridge," said Maj. Casey to a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday, and will draw up all its plans in the minutest detail.

"The plans and drawings will then be submitted to the Secretary of War, and when he has gone over them they will be referred to me for a report to him.

"It will then be my duty to investigate the plans in toto, to see if they conform to the requirements as to direction with regard to the current of the river, height above the water, distance between the piers and conformity to the water plum line.

"Then I shall make my report back to the Secretary of War, and if the plans are approved, I shall have charge of so much of the active building of the bridge as conformity to the terms of the War Department may require.

"I shall simply act as an agent of the War Department and the site and plans must be determined upon first, though it may be I shall be informally consulted in the matter before the plans are complete and submitted at Washington."

PRIZE FIGHTER ARRESTED.

Negro Who Was Knocked Out Accused of Burglary.

Hayes Bingham, the negro who was knocked out in the first round of a prizefight at Fireworks Station, near East St. Louis, was arrested Wednesday on a charge of entering the home of W. S. Brown, 1006 Division avenue, and stealing a suit case containing wearing apparel valued at $25. He was held for the grand jury under $500 bond by Justice Brady, and is in the Belleville Jail.

His arrest was caused by two boys who had seen the prizefight. They say they recognized the negro when they saw him leaving through a window of the brown residence. Entrance was gained through a rear window and after ransacking a trunk, the burglar took a suit case containing a suit of clothes and other clothing. He escaped through the same window.

MAYOR SHOWED HE IS GOOD FELLOW ON TRIP TO CHESLEY ISLAND

By Singing Songs, Making and Listening to Speeches, His Honor Wins the Regards of the House of Delegates—Inspection of Reduction Plant a Minor Matter.

Mayor Wells, in his private office under the shadow of Secretary McConkey, is one person. But "Old Rolla Wells," singing "coon" songs and leading a chorus of cheerful roisterers with all the spirit of a collegian after the Thanksgiving football game, is quite another person. The members of the House of Delegates and half a hundred city officials and politicians found this out Wednesday afternoon.

It all happened on the harbor boat Mark Twain. The city officials and politicians made a trip of inspection to Chesley Island. Coming back everyone assembled in the roomy cabin of the snug little boat and for two hours the happy spirits forgot their dignity. There was singing, toastmaking, speeches, stories—all to the accompaniment of the popping of many corks. In the midst of it all Mayor Wells not only semed to be at home, but to be having as good a time as anybody.

It was the first time that the somewhat frank and rough members of the House had to study the Mayor at close range. To a man they now swear by him and call him a "good fellow, if there ever was one."

Mayor Won the Delegates.

City officials and others in touch with affairs at the City Hall say that the occasion marks a new era in the advancement of New St. Louis. Although never seriously at outs with the Mayor, the members of the House have never been especially friendly to him—principally because of his reserve. Now, by the simple means of showing that he was a "good fellow" for two hours he has won them over entirely.

Although the trip was really made for the purpose of investigating the new animal reduction plant being built on the famous Chesley Island, this soon became of secondary importance. It was very hot when the island was reached. And then Chesley is hardly a place you would select for an afternoon's outing.

So only a hasty inspection of the plant—a two-story affair, which will reduce the city's dead animals from next month on—was made, and inside of 15 minutes the boat was boarded again. In fact, some of the members didn't dare to inspect the island at all. Mr. Hussey, the orator of the House, admitted that the perfume of the island had him bluffed.

The more hardy members of the junket made a trip of inspection through the pig reservation part of the island. Judge Tracy led in this. He seemed to take a great interest in the different kinds of pigs, and whenever he came to a new inclosure he would stop, and with an audience of as many as had the hardihood to stop, he would discourse learnedly on the species pig. He said afterwards that it was just like being in Ireland once more.

The visitors to the island strung out while crossing through the pig portion. When they arrived at the reduction plant, which will be finished inside of two weeks, those who had remained on the boat got off and, led by Mayor Wells, were taught many things about the reduction of animals.

The plant is being put up by the Mound City Reduction Co., incorporated last month. The concern will not be paid by the city for the reduction of its dead animals. The plant will pay for itself by the residuents out of which grease and other things are manufactured. After next month no more dead animals will be reduced in St. Louis. Chesley Island will have that honor.

Luncheon, Songs and Speeches.

When the boat started for St. Louis—20 miles up stream—there was a rush for the cabin. Although luncheon had been served on the trip down there were still many things to eat and more to drink.

Steven A. Martin, clerk of the House, was elected master of ceremonies. Mr. Martin, who is a member of the Hot Time Minstrels, has a tenor voice of great renown. He led all the chorus songs and called on all the speakers as if he were used to it.

At the beginning of the fun Mayor Wells was not in the cabin. So a committee was sent after him. He was found on the rear deck with Judge Tracy and several politicians. He came in readily with an expansive smile.

At first the presence of the Mayor acted as a sort of safety valve on the sizzling spirits of the delegates and the rest. Martin sang several sweet, but not rousing songs. Then the whole bunch sang the stein song. After that they sang, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," referring to the Mayor.

Mayor Likes "Rufus Brown."

Up to this time the enthusiasm had been reserved. The politicians were seated along both sides of a long table that ran from one end of the cabin to the other. They had beer steins before them and occasionally they would rap them gently on the table and say, "Hear, hear!" But it was all quiet and the Mayor still had his dignity.

Then some one asked Mayor Wells what his favorite song was. "Rufus Brown," said the Mayor, while everyone roared, thinking he was joking.

But Martin started up the coon song and the rafters of the cabin fairly rocked with the chorus. Suddenly the Mayor jumped to his feet. He was shouting to make himself heard.

"That's not the way to sing the song," he said, "I'll lead you."

The Mayor Led the Singing.

The Mayor's way of singing the song consisted in stringing out the last word of each verse which made the song very ludicrous. He used both hands as batons to get the effect. After the song the roisterers applauded with delight and called for the song again and again.

This made every one feel at home. From then on all forgot the Mayor was there and looked on Mr. Wells as simply a "good fellow."

In fact they even got disrespectful. Someone started the ditty, and before he had got two words out the whole crowd was singing:

Old Rolla Wells is a good old soul.
Old Rolla Wells is a good old soul.
Old Rolla Wells is a—good—OLD SOUL.
Yes, he is, and a pigskin whole.

The Mayor took this song in perfect good humor and a minute later, when Harbor Commissioner Whyte, the host of the party, was made the subject of the song, the Mayor's voice was heard with the best of the singers.

Mayor Wells was sitting on one side of the table about the center. He was between Delegates Connell and Gazzolo. By this time the three were so intimate that Gazzolo several times almost put his arm around the Mayor's shoulders and apparently was telling him the story of his life. The Mayor was smiling broadly. Once he slapped Gazzolo on the shoulder with all the enthusiasm of a Freshman.

Then speeches were made by almost everyone in sight. "Tom" Leonard, assistant clerk of the House and a member of the Missouri Legislature, told a story on Judge Tracy where a defendant upbraided the Police Court Judge because he didn't know how to play "seven up." The Judge got back at Leonard by accusing him of being the defendant in the case.

Then several who could sing and several who could not sing contributed to the afternoon's sport. Martin, as master of ceremonies, succeeded in getting contributions from nearly everyone present. Then as a climax he called upon Mr. Hussey, whose great unmade speech has made him more famous than ever, a delivered speech made another orator, to sepak.

The crowd took up the cry and until the sound could be heard on either river bank. "Hussey, Hussey, Hussey!" they yelled.

Hussey's Speech Interrupted.

The ponderous statesman from the Twenty-second Ward rose grandly to his full height—six feet. He swept the audience with a glance that brought quiet in a second. He raised his right arm—which weighs about 50 pounds—until it was horizontal.

"Gentlemen," he began, "gentlemen, I fell deeply"——

Just then there was a jolting of the boat, a sound of the crew running to and fro, and the merry makers rose from their seats in alarm, many of them rushing out on the decks. The boat had grounded on a bar.

At the interruption Mr. Hussey's horizontal right arm fell to his side. As it fell it landed on the head of little "Jim" Nash, who went down as if a lamppost had struck him.

Mr. Hussey, by the way, was the only member of the minority on the trip. At first it didn't look as if any of the minority were going along. But at the foot of Marceau street the boat was flagged on a telephone message. Nash and Hussey arrived 10 minutes later and were taken on board.

No one learned what Hussey felt so deeply. Mr. Hussey sank to his seat with a sigh. In the sigh there was the accumulated discouragement and sorrow of half a dozen unsuccessful attempts to get out his great speech.

While Mike Prindiville, a true Democrat of the Sixteenth Ward, was singing a mournful ditty, Mayor Wells slipped out of the cabin to the deck. He looked tired, but as if he had enjoyed himself. Water Commissioner Ben Adkins and others of the administration crowded around with congratulations.

The Mayor left the boat among the first when it stopped at 6 p. m. at the foot of Market street. He jumped into his waiting motor car and was whirled away across the levee stones under the elevated tracks.

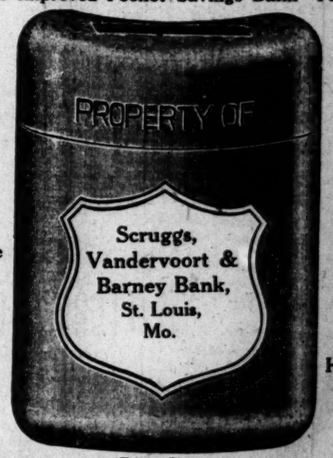

As the snorting of his machine settled down to a rythmical burr, the Mayor heard coming across the water the cheerful spirits still singing his praise in "For he's a jolly good fellow, for he's a jolly good fellow, for he's a jolly—good—fello-ow-ow-ow-ow, which nobody can D-E-N-Y."

WORKMEN GIVE LIVES FOR EACH OTHER IN VAIN

In an Attempt to Rescue One Two Men Are Suffocated by Gas.

PETROLEUM TANK LEAKED

Engineer Started Down to Shut the Valve and Was Stricken.

HE HAD WARNED OTHERS

They Refused to Obey His Words and a Triple Tragedy Was the Result.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WATERBURY, Conn., June 28.—Eugene Rowley, Frederick Scott and Dennis Sullivan were drowned here in 30 inches of crude petroleum which had settled at the bottom of one of the big pits in the yard of the Benedict & Burnham Manufacturing Co. Scott and Sullivan met death in a brave effort to rescue Rowley.

A huge fuel tank stood in the center of the pit. This morning it was discovered that the tank was leaking. Rowley, the engineer in charge, came rushing to the scene, closely followed by Scott, his assistant, and Sullivan, a helper.

"If anything happens," cried Rowley, as he started down the ladder, "don't you boys come after me. You can't breathe gas any more than you can breathe lead. But I've got to shut off that valve."

Halfway down Rowley, overcome by the fumes, reeled, lost his hold and pitched into the escaping petroleum.

"I can't stand this," said Scott. "I'm going after him."

"Get a rope," warned Sullivan.

"No time," answered Scott.

"Gene would be dead before I got there. Don't you take any chances, Sully. Just yell for help."

Scott dropped unconscious almost at the first round. Then Sullivan shut his teeth.

"They're both got wives," he muttered, "and I'm Dennis Sullivan—that is, no good to anybody; here goes." And, shaking off the men who tried to restrain him, he went over the side.

In a moment he had joined the dead men soaking in the oozing fluid below.

Through the crowd came Wilber Babcock, superintendent of the Waterbury Brass Goods Corporation. He was stripping off his coat as he ran.

"No use, Mr. Babcock," pleaded a fireman. "You're a dead man the minute you hit that ladder."

"Go to the devil!" yelled Babcock, and he started down. He collapsed almost at the pit's rim, but William Kearney caught him as he fell and dragged him back.

When the factory officials reached the scene they drove away the men and sought frantically to stop the flow of oil. The three bodies were recovered.

Babcock lies at his home in a critical condition.

NEW TIRE FOR AUTOS.

St. Louisan's Invention Will Lessen Side-Slipping.

Scientific journals are devoting considerable space to a description of an automobile tire recently invented by Dr. John K. Broderick of 805 North Main street, which, it is believed, will greatly lessen the number of automobile accidents if generally introduced.

The tire presents a flat surface to the road instead of a rounded surface, as in the old-style tires, and it is claimed that this feature will prevent its slipping or "skidding" on curves. Motorists say that the majority of automobile accidents are due to such side-slipping.

Dr. Broderick says he has used tires of the same pattern on bicycles and has found that the danger of side-slipping is reduced fully 75 per cent. The tire will require a specially designed rim. It will be much easier to put on than the old-style tire and the rim on which it fits will not be greatly damaged if the vehicle is run without the tire. It is designed for use on vehicles of any kind, but is said to be especially adapted where high speed and quick turns are required.

A REPEATER

When you buy your parrot be sure and tell the dealer, whose name you see in the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH WANT DIRECTORY that you want a "TALKING" bird. Then you will get one that will repeat, with a little practice, almost everything you say to it.

It's Great Fun to Teaching Parrots to Talk!

DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS are cheap, convenient, certain and harmless. Cheap, as one dose is usually sufficient to relieve the pain. Convenient, being little tablets, that you can always carry, and take as you would a lozenge. Certain because they cure by soothing the irritated nerves. Harmless as they contain no harmful drugs. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

It keeps us busy acknowledging compliments. "The 5th Floor Restaurant is MIGHTY swell and so reasonable." Thanks. The May Co.

LAX-ETS for the BOWELS

Only 5 cents per box—Lax-ets, a new sweet toothsome laxative for constipation, sour stomach, bad breath, bad taste, biliousness, etc. Unless you try Lax-ets, you will never know its value—and only 5 cents at druggists or mail for 5 2-cent stamps. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis.

DEFENDS HIS JOB WITH A REVOLVER

Attorney Charged in Warrant With Drawing Weapon on Insurance Agent.

SAYS THREAT WAS MADE

Resigned Place, He Says, but Resented Remarks of Caller.

George A. Davies of 5368 Julian place, an attorney in the Odd Fellows' Building, charged in a warrant with carrying concealed weapons, surrendered Thursday and gave $800 bond for his appearance in the Court of Criminal Correction. The complainant, F. L. Weaver, special agent of the Allemannia Fire Insurance Co. of Pittsburg, says Davies drew two revolvers on him after he had removed Davies from the local agency of the company.

Davies said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he did not say anything to Weaver that could be taken as a threat, but that when Weaver threatened him with a cane he drew his revolver.

"I haven't but one hand," said Mr. Davies, "and I had to make a bluff to protect myself. The revolver could not have been fired because it is a center-fire pistol and was loaded with rim-fire cartridges.

"When Weaver came to my office Thursday I went into the hall and told him that he should not have had me sign a statement as it was not correct. Then he raised his cane and threatened me, and I drew my pistol.

"I do not owe the company a dollar. We keep an account of premiums collected for the company and turn it in every month. I signed a statement for Mr. Weaver without glancing at it. I told him that I guessed it was all right. Later I saw that this statement was incorrect, and wanted him to correct it.

"Mr. Weaver did not depose me from the agency here. I resigned before he asked me. I have been state agent for five years, and three times before this the company has refused to accept my resignation.

The agency is said to have been transferred from Davies to Edgar R. Smythe, member of the House of Delegates, and Weaver says Davies has some imagined grievance because of the transfer.

Weaver, who lives in Detroit, says he went to Davies' office Wednesday, and that a bookkeeper called him into the hall and told him Davies was carrying two revolvers and had threatened to shoot him. Davies was at the telephone then, in a minute, Weaver says, he came into the hall, drew a revolver and said, "I am going to kill you."

Weaver says he wrested the weapons from Davies, then ran downstairs and called a policeman. Davies had disappeared when the policeman arrived.

HUNT A COMMITTEEMAN.

Neville Nominated for Congress in the Eleventh.

George Neville was nominated for Congress by the Democrats of the Eleventh Congressional District at Wednesday's primaries by a vote of 2213 to 145 for Congressman John T. Hunt. Hunt was not in reality a candidate, having withdrawn from the race to run independently. He made an effort to keep his name from the ballots, and when he was unable to do this he advised his friends to refrain from voting.

The Congressional Committee, to which new members were elected is now composed as follows:

Second Ward, Jomes P. Goodman and Henry Mersman; Third Ward, James J. Moore and George W. Airing; Sixteenth Ward, John Hodnett and Daniel E. Naughton; Seventeenth Ward, James J. Sheehan and C. P. Heehler; Eighteenth Ward, John H. Sullivan and James P. Riley; Twentieth Ward, William Gilchrist and David Quigley; Twenty-first Ward, George Neville and John T. Hunt; Twenty-sixth Ward, John McAuliffe and James H. Lee.

Roumanian Bandit Here.

Zallony, the famous Roumanian brigand, has escaped and arrived in this country. His adventures here rival those he underwent in Roumania and are thrillingly related by Max Pemberton in "The Lady Evelyn," a great novel that will appear serially in the Sunday Post-Dispatch, beginning next Sunday.

COLES IS REAPPOINTED.

Referee in Bankruptcy Retains His Office.

Walter D. Coles, referee in bankruptcy since the act creating that office went into effect in July 1895, was reappointed to the office Thursday morning by Judge Finkelnburg of the United States Court. The present appointment is to run for two years.

Coles is a Democrat and was appointed in 1898 by Judge Adams.

LOST WIFE, ENDS LIFE.

Brooding Over Separation, Husband Commits Suicide.

John B. Stolzenberg, Jr., rose from the table at his home at 3915 Blair avenue Wednesday evening and, without a word of warning, walked into an adjoining room and fired a bullet into his head. He died on the operating table at the North End Dispensary half an hour later.

Stolzenberg was 34 years old. A year and a half ago he separated from his wife and went to live with his parents. He brooded constantly over the separation, and his relatives believe it caused him to take his life.

BURIED IN SAND PIT 22 HOURS

With Head Only Visible Plumber Is Rescued in Pitiable Condition.

NEW YORK, June 28.—After fighting against death for more than 22 hours, Jeremiah Fisher, a plumber, was rescued alive today from a sand pit at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, in which he had been imprisoned since 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon. The rescued man is in a pitiable condition from exhaustion, however, and it is not at all certain that he will survive the effects of his frightful ordeal.

Fisher was working in an excavation when a passing street car loosened the earth around the hole and sent an avalanche of sand pouring down on him. Before he could scramble out of its way the sand had sifted in around his legs and held him as firmly as in a vise, gradually rising until only his head was visible.

For hours a large force of rescuers worked with frantic haste in an effort to save the imprisoned man, but the shifting sand surged back and renewed its grip upon the prisoner almost as fast as they could remove it. When the rescuers began to abandon hope of getting Fisher out alive, they decided to notify his family of his predicament and the wife, mother and brother were witnesses of the all-night fight for life which followed.

EASY TO FIND SOLDIER.

Service by Publication Is Held Insufficient.

When Circuit Judge Fisher discovered durnig the trial of the divorce case of Mrs. Susie Mullally against Thomas Mullally that Thomas was a soldier in the United States Army when the petition was filed, he intimated that the service by the publication which had been obtained would not suffice, because it is possible to locate any soldier through the War Department and get personal service. Mrs. Mullally's attorney withdrew the petition and will begin the proceeding over again and try to get personal service on Mullally, who is now said to be in Oakland, Cal.

Mrs. Mullally, who is a telegraph operator, testified that her husband left her the day after they were married, which was on May 28, 1903, and enlisted in the army. He was sent to Fort Meyers, Va., and promised to send for her in two months, but never did so. He was later sent to the Philippines.

COULD NOT REST NIGHT OR DAY

With Irritating Skin Humor—Whole Body Affected—Scalp Itched All the Time and Hair Began to Fall Out—Wonderful Result From

APPLICATION OF CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I am never without Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment since I tried them last summer. About the latter part of July my whole body began to itch. I did not take much notice of it at first, but it began to get worse all the time, and then I began to get uneasy and tried all kinds of baths and other remedies that were recommended for skin humors; but I became worse all the time. My hair began to fall out and my scalp itched all the time. Especially at night, just as soon as I would get in bed and get warm, my whole body would begin to itch and my finger nails would keep it irritated, and it was not long before I could not rest night or day. A friend asked me to try the Cuticura Remedies, and I did, and the first application helped me wonderfully. For about four weeks I would take a hot bath every night and then apply the Cuticura Ointment to my whole body; and I kept getting better, and by the time I used four boxes of Cuticura I was entirely cured, and my hair stopped falling out, but I continue to use the Cuticura on my scalp. It keeps all dandruff out and scalp is always clean. I always use Cuticura Ointment on my face after shaving, and have found nothing to equal it. I will never be without it." D. E. Blankenship, 319 N. Del. St., Oct. 27, 1905. Indianapolis, Ind.

RECOMMENDED TO ALL MOTHERS

"I have used Cuticura Ointment for chafing of infants, and as they grew older all skin diseases were given treatment with that and the Cuticura Soap. I never found it necessary to call a doctor, as these Remedies are a sure cure, if used as directed. I am glad to recommend them to all mothers." Sincerely yours, Mrs. F. A. Kennard, June 21, 1905. St. Paul Park, Minn.

BUCKET SHOPS IN BLAND'S ORDERS

New Police Commissioner Also Instructed to Work Against Clubs.

HE IS YOUNG ATTORNEY

Hero of Many Football Games—Seeks to Avoid Politics on Force.

Theodoric R. Bland, a young St. Louis attorney, whose father, Richard Parks Bland, the distinguished silver apostle, was defeated by William J. Bryan for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1896, talked to a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday relative to his appointment as a member of the Board of Police Commissioners to succeed Andrew C. Maroney.

Gov. Folk will forward his commission some time during the day, and Mr. Bland probably will participate in the regular meeting of the Police Board Friday afternoon.

The Governor said Thursday that before the decision to appoint was made there had been an understanding of the work Mr. Bland would do. The Governor said Mr. Bland would devote the greater part of his time to the duties of a Police Commissioner, and that he would be expected to personally investigate complaints and plan a vigorous campaign against bucket shops, Sunday "lid" clubs and other violations of the laws.

The Governor is fully satisfied he has found in Mr. Bland the man he has been searching for. He expects the handsome, athletic young Police Commissioner and hero of many football contests to do things in the St. Louis Police Department. The Governor expects him to know how the Police Department in St. Louis is being conducted without it being necessary for citizens to make complaint.

To Watch Night Revelry.

He expects Commissioner Bland to personally visit police districts at all hours of the day and night. He expects him to make excursions into those districts where revelry is wont to exist far into the night. In short, the Governor says, he expects Commissioner Bland to know at all times that every man connected with the department is doing his duty.

"I have not yet familiarized myself with the duties of a Police Commissioner," said Mr. Bland, "hence a declaration of policy on my part would be premature. However, I will say in a general way that I am a firm believer in Gov. Folk's law enforcement policy. I believe the statutes should be enforced without fear or favor."

Mr. Bland was asked if Gov. Folk had given him specific instructions to investigate the bucket-shop evil and the "lid-lifting" clubs.

"The Governor," answered Mr. Bland, "has merely discussed these, as well as other matters, with me in an informal way. But I am only one member of the board, and, of course, there will have to be unanimous action before anything can be done."

"I am not prepared to say just what methods should be adopted in ridding the city of these evils. It is my impression that the Circuit Attorney's office has had the bucket shops under consideration for some time. Probably he will initiate action against them.

"While I have some ideas on the subject of law-enforcement, I prefer to wait until I have thoroughly acquainted myself with the new office before stating just what can or will be done. President Stewart probably is the proper official to announce questions of policy."

The new commissioner, the eldest son of "Silver Dick" Bland, is 29 years old, and was born in Lebanon, Mo. He is married and lives at 5102 Kensington avenue.

His Selection Unexpected.

When told that Gov. Folk had made the appointment, Mr. Bland said that his selection in the first place, championed by a number of young attorney friends, had come unexpectedly. He said he had no political ax to grind and would do all in his power to keep the department within the lines it should know. He said he would be opposed to the retention of bad men on the police force.

Mr. Bland was one of the victims of thugs at the Democratic primary of March, 1904. He was knocked into the gutter at Delmar boulevard and Taylor avenue.

For many years there has been no more potent hand in the amateur athletics in St. Louis than Bland's. He has coached many football teams in St. Louis and has instructed the elevens at Fulton and Rolla and the Christian Brothers of St. Louis. He graduated from Christian Brothers' College, with a degree of bachelor of arts, in 1897. Two years later he graduated from the St. Louis Law School. He and Miss Winifred Vickery of St. Louis were married in October, 1904.

AN INSIGHT INTO UTAH.

Union Pacific Booklet Reveals Amazing Resources of Great State.

Filled from cover to cover with the most interesting information about a State which is making its settlers wealthy in probably a greater proportion than any other, is the booklet on Utah, just issued by the Union Pacific Railroad.

One is amazed at the great resources of Utah, as gleaned from the booklet, which is compiled from the latest Government reports and is as accurate as an encyclopedia.

The chances for investment are conservatively stated with a mirrored bird's-eye view of the present conditions of the various industries. The booklet, in a word, is a reliable guide to those who are already financially interested, or are contemplating to settle in a rich and rapidly growing State.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBUS, O., June 28.—If anyone has a really black cat he can find a ready buyer in Mrs. Minerva Waterman of Columbus, who says she has long advertised for such a cat and never been able to find one. Hundreds have been offered her, but she says she has never yet found one that did not have some white hairs on it. She doubts that a totally black cat exists. She declines to say why she wants a black cat. Mrs. Waterman is a widow.

HARVEST AND BASEBALL.

Combination Which Puzzled Farmer.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., June 28.—A new difficulty in the matter of harvest help was experienced at the big Forsha ranch, nine miles south of here. The baseball fever is at its height and all the hands engaged in the wheat harvest at this ranch struck and came to town to see the game between the Hutchinson and Joplin teams of the Western Association. The ranch folk were up against it for help in saving their wheat until Manager Fred Forsha was seized with a bright idea, and agreed to put up a big bulletin board at one side of the field to keep the workers posted on the game.

The result of the game was telephoned to the Forsha ranch by innings and posted on the board for the benefit of the hundred or more workers engaged in the harvest, who had returned to work.

Fifty Years in Five Minutes.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—It took a jury five minutes to decide that John Smith, an ex-convict, was the man who entered the home of Mrs. Lena Wilson last February and severely beat and choked her until she gave him some money. It took Judge Cook about the same length of time to deny a motion for a new trial and sentence Smith to fifty years.

SUBMARINE IS MISSING.

Boat With Eight on Board Thought to Be Lost.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 28.—S. B. Lake, father of the inventor of the Lake submarine boat, is worried over the non-arrival of the Lake experimental submarine, scheduled to arrive off this city today.

The boat was spoken off Cape Henry, on the way from Newport News, and all was well then on board, but the craft has not been reported since. The weather has been thick and the commander may have taken the vessel far off shore.

Thousands of anxious watchers lined the board walk with marine glasses yesterday to catch a sight of the expected craft. A crew of eight men are on board.

STORM DESTROYS TOWN.

Tornado Wrecks Nearly Every Home in Tittzewah, O. T.

TITTZEWAH, O. T., June 28.—A tornado last night practically destroyed this town, tearing nearly every building from its foundation and carrying it some distance. Nobody was seriously hurt.

There was a heavy loss of livestock. Crops were ruined.

POLICE MUST PROVE UP.

Naturalized Officers Must Show Legal Papers.

NEW YORK, June 28.—An investigation is now being made into the naturalization of all naturalized members of the New York police force. Any whose papers are fraudulent will not only be dismissed, it is understood, but will be prosecuted by the United States authorities. The investigation is expected to result in a sensational shakeup in the police department as the naturalized men on the force constitute 68 per cent of it. Some frauds already have been discovered.

The investigation was begun three weeks ago when Police Commissioner Bingham wrote to United States District Attorney Henry A. Stimson, asking that the Federal authorities help out his office in seeing that the naturalization papers presented by the foreign-born applicants for jobs on the force are all right and according to law.

It is said that irregularities in the other departments led the commissioner to make the request.

HOW THE AUTHOR OF "LADY EVELYN" ACHIEVED WEALTH

MR. MAX PEMBERTON.

Max Pemberton has just completed "The Lady Evelyn," a romance which will be printed exclusively in the Sunday Post-Dispatch before its issue in book form. The first installment begins next Sunday. Mr. Pemberton was born in Birmingham, England, in 1863. He has had a successful and interesting career as an author since he graduated, early in the '80s, from Calus College, Cambridge. In 1885 he joined the staff of Vanity Fair and simultaneously began to write stories and miscellaneous articles for several London periodicals. In 1891 he published "The Diary of a Scoundrel," and in 1892 he became the editor of Chums, and four years later succeeded to the chair of Cassell's Magazine. Subsequently Mr. Pemberton devoted himself, with phenomenal success, to the writing of fiction, a field in which he has achieved both fortune and fame. Among his chief romances are "The Iron Pirate," 1893; "The Sea Wolves," 1894; "Jewel Mysteries I Have Known," 1894; "The Impregnable City," 1895, stories of thrilling adventure; "The Little Huguenot" and "A Puritan's Wife," 1896; "A Gentleman's Gentleman," 1896; "Christine of the Hills," a novel of Dalmatian life, considered one of his best productions; "Queen of the Jesters," 1897; "The Garden of Swords" and "Signals of the Night," 1899. In 1900 appeared a story of love and adventure in Moscow, St. Petersburg and Tiflis, entitled "The Footsteps of a Throne," followed by "Feo," a well put together romance of an English opera singer and an Austrian. Mr. Pemberton shows the cunning hand of a skilled novelist, interesting and ingenious in his plots, while each is merrily told and brightly treated. His style is vivacious and fresh, while his characters are neither shadows nor puppets, but have real human blood in them. His rank is deservedly high among the more popular novelists of the day.

KANSAS OFFICIALS RIVAL MRS. NATION

Destroy Liquor and Fixtures, and Threaten to Demolish Buildings.

SAY BARS MUST CLOSE

Officer Appointed by Gov. Hoch Leads Kansas City Crusade.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 28.—The anti-saloon crusade at Kansas City, Kan., was renewed today with increased vigor. In addition to destroying stocks of liquor and bar fixtures, C. W. Trickett, the Assistant Attorney-General appointed by Gov. Hoch to enforce the prohibition law, today threatened to demolish saloon buildings if the owners persisted in renting their places to joint keepers. Many of these buildings are owned by brewing companies.

Today Attorney-General Trickett began sending out warnings to property owners.

"This is to notify you," reads the warning, "that if you permit said premises to be again used for the sale of intoxicating liquors so as to make necessary the issuance of a second writ of abatement, I shall order the premises sufficiently demolished so that no third trip will be necessary and in addition will cite you for contempt of court in aiding and assisting in violating the order of the court."

There are about 100 saloons in Kansas City, Kan., about 50 of which have been closed. The liquors and fixtures in 15 of these had been seized by the county officials. A portion of this property was destroyed yesterday and today the officials continued to spill liquor and break up costly bars, tables and other furniture already brought in and to search for still more.

BEER NATIONAL DRINK.

Brewers Declare for Its Use at Soda Fountains.

At the annual convention recently held in Indianapolis the United States Brewers' Association adopted a set of strong resolutions, again reiterating its determination to put the brewing industry upon a higher plane and make the products of the industry more of a national drink than at present.

First of all, the convention congratulated the associations of many states and cities who refuse to supply beer to low and vile resorts, which are not approved by public sentiment in their respective communities. Following it was resolved that all members pursue this wise plan and urged every brewer to frequently call attention to the fact that there is so little alcohol in beer that it will not produce drunkenness unless when drunk with ardent stimulants.

Special attention was given to the interesting fact that the Texas brewers have for more than two years spent $10,000 a month closing low and vile saloons and dives. Clippings of editorials of some of the most prominent newspapers in the country were read, indorsing the use of beer as a national drink and that it should be sold as a beverage at soda water fountains.

SHOT AT INTRUDER.

Woman Did Not Know "Me" Working at Keyhole.

James Mittlenburger of 4402 Maffitt avenue and Fred Siefert of 4417 Kennerly avenue tried to get into the wrong house late Wednesday night and the occupant of the wrong house took a couple of shots at them.

Mittlenburger was acting as a Good Samaritan toward his friend Siefert when the mistake occurred. He attempted to steer Siefert into his own harbor at 4415 Kennerly avenue, but instead steered him into that of Mrs. Roeper, at 4417.

Mrs. Roeper heard them hunting the keyhole and thought of burglars. Putting her head out of a second-story window she asked who was there.

Siefert said it was "me," but she did not recognize his voice and commanded him to go away. Siefert thought it was his wife talking and declined to go away. Mrs. Roeper opened fire. One bullet lodged in the wall of the residence of Mrs. John E. Nagel, 4413 Kennerly, and another went through a wall of the same residence and buried itself in the floor.

Policeman Loepker came running and explanations were made. No arrests were made.

DIVORCE DENIED BLIND.

Bailey Said Wife Retained Her Visitor's Hat.

Mrs. Amanda F. Bailey retained Charles E. Reavy's hat to prevent him from leaving when he called at her home, according to testimony given late Wednesday afternoon by Charles W. Bailey in Judge Fisher's court in his divorce suit against his wife, but Judge Fisher held that the evidence was not strong enough and dismissed the bill. All three of the persons are blind.

Bailey, who is a music teacher, is a son of an East St. Louisan. His wife is a daughter of the late William E. Burr, who was president of the St. Louis National Bank. They were married March 4, 1898. Besides an allowance from her father's estate, Mrs. Bailey came into possession of a fortune of $30,000 from her mother two years ago.

Bailey testified that he and his wife lived happily together until a few months ago, when she became acquainted with Reavey. He visited them often and when he expressed an anxiety to be going Mrs. Bailey would get his hat and keep it in order to prevent him from departing, according to Bailey.

Bailey said his wife finally admitted her preference for Reavey and when he spoke of ordering Reavey to remain away from the house she said she would meet him elsewhere if this was done.

Bailey said he ordered Reavey to remain away, but he came again. The couple separated May 3. They had been living at 3837 Morgan street.

Ghost Comes to Life.

As Mr. Gavin Ord was on his way to the Melbourne manor house one evening he saw distinctly in the moonlit water of the river that crosses the estate, the face of a drowned woman. Ten minutes later on reaching the house he met face to face, and very much alive, the girl he had seen in the river. How do you account for it? Read the explanation in "The Lady Evelyn," Max Pemberton's greatest novel, which will appear serially in the Sunday Post-Dispatch next Sunday.

H. Clay Pierce Not Here.

The report that H. Clay Pierce, president of the Board of Directors of the Waters Pierce Oil Co., had arrived in St. Louis Wednesday, is said at the offices of the company to have been an error. It was stated there that Clay Arthur Pierce, president of the company, had returned Wednesday from a trip in the East.

PELLOR DISCHARGED.

Embezzlement Charge Is Dismissed by Judge Kinsey.

Henry S. Pellor was discharged in Judge Kinsey's Court on the charge of embezzling $2000 from the De Hodiamont Planing Mill Co., a part of the Cassidy estate. The case was dismissed Wednesday on motion of his attorneys. The defense tried to have the case continued again, but failed.

Mrs. Pellor, one of the heirs, recently brought suit for a settlement of the Cassidy estate. As she was leaving the witness chair Pellor, who had been away for some time, appeared in court. Mrs. Pellor fainted at the sight of her former husband. He took the stand and testified against her in the case and was arrested on the embezzlement charge at the instance of Mrs. Pellor's attorneys as he stepped from the witness stand.

FEED MERGER NOT TRUST.

Organizer Says $1,000,000 Combine Is for Economy.

Plans are now being made for a merger of the leading St. Louis firms that deal in hay, oats, bran and other feed into a syndicate to be capitalized at $1,000,000. W. O. Andrews, local agent for the Columbia National Insurance Co., is directing the organization of the syndicate, and he proposes to include about twenty firms in the combination.

At a meeting held in the office of Mr. Andrews in the Bank of Commerce Building Tuesday, eight of the largest feed concerns were represented, and plans for the organization were discussed. Those interested say the new combination will not be anything like a trust, but will be an organization for purposes of economy.

The companies represented at the meeting Tuesday night were: The C. Bergmann Feed Co., Joseph A. Buckland Feed Co., the Rosedale Feed Co., Andrews & McClellan, F. W. Clemens & Co., Chris Hilke, Puckett & Kisner Feed Co., and W. A. Miller & Co.

LOOSE TEETH

The most dread disease to the dental profession is pyorrhea, commonly known as scurvy. In this disease the gums have become congested and recede from the teeth, causing them to become loose and in time to fall out. Some dentists recommend the "pulling cure," causing many to wear plates unnecessarily. I successfully treat this disease, tighten the teeth, relieve irritation and pus formations, and where there are two or three teeth in each jaw, build a full set of artificial teeth around them that will look like and answer all purposes of natural teeth.

Dr. Hunter makes teeth without plates and regulates irregular and crooked teeth.

BIG STRIKE ENDS; BUILDING RESUMED

Committee of Stonemasons and Bricklayers Will Adjust Difficulty.

HODCARRIER STARTED IT

Conflict Between Organizations Kept Thousands Idle for Many Weeks.

Work on hundreds of buildings which has been at a standstill because of a strike of workmen belonging to the Building Trades Council was resumed Thursday. The strike was called off Wednesday night by an almost unanimous vote.

The strike was the result of a fight between the Building Trades Council and the International Bricklayers' Union, the council refusing to allow men to work on buildings where bricklayers were employed.

A committee of seven each from the stonemasons and the bricklayers will meet in a few days to settle the difficulty. A working agreement at least will be decided on. A number of stonemasons recently left the council and affiliated with the bricklayers, leaving 250 masons yet members of the council.

It is stated that the calling off of the strike will not affect the strike of the structural iron workers, who are demanding $5 a day.

The reported threat of officials of the Master Builders' Association to recognize the open shop did not cause the council to end the strike, officials of that body say. It is the result of a letter from the international organization of the council urging the local body to end the strike for the good of St. Louis and the building industry. H. W. Steinbiss, secretary and treasurer of the international organization, spoke at the meeting urging the men to go back to work.

The trouble, which has paralyzed building work for months, was started by a negro hod carrier who disagreed with his union and formed one of his own, over which the council and bricklayers got into a fight.

The carpenters affiliated with the council will not work on buildings where the independent carpenters are employed, but it is expected they will remove this obstacle to the resumption of work by admitting the independent men into the carpenters' union.

MANY WOODMEN HERE.

Will Initiate 1700 New Members Into Order.

Modern Woodmen of America arrived Thursday in large numbers from Missouri and Illinois towns to take part in the initiation of the class of 1700 candidates at the Jai Alai Building Thursday night. It is expected that 20,000 persons will be present.

Among the visitors are Head Consul Talbot, Past Head Consul Northcott, Head Clerk Hawes and J. H. D. Stevens, supervising deputy.

A Talbot dinner will be given at Hotel Jefferson at 6 p. m., after which the guests will assemble at the Jai Alai Building, where the exercises attending the initiation will begin at 7:30. Maj. Page of St. Louis will have charge of the Forester team and L. J. Ryan of Hannibal will be official escort.

ARIOSA NOT REDUCED.

Grade of This Package Coffee Too High for Lowering of Prices.

Recent published reports of the reduction in price of a certain package coffee have no relation to Arbuckle's "Ariosa" coffee, the standard of coffee values for the past 37 years.

In trade parlance the grade of "Ariosa" is too high for a price reduction in this market. Its equal in quality could not be retailed competitively except at a pecuniary loss. Loose, mixed coffees sold out of bags and bins cannot be identified, and are no criterion of retail values, offering opportunities for deception and the temptation for excessive profits.

DYING STOCK BUTCHERED.

Cattle and Pigs in Wreck Hastily Slaughtered.

Butchers from Tilden, Ill., 44 miles southeast of St. Louis, killed and dressed a number of cattle, sheep and hogs which were injured in a wreck near that place early Thursday. A northbound Illinois Central freight train collided with a southbound freight, and three cars of stock were thrown from the track.

The bleating of the sheep, the squeals of the pigs and the lowing of the cattle as the cars turned over beside the track was distressing. The cars contained 26 cattle, 60 sheep and 45 hogs, and most of them were injured in the collision. Several were killed outright.

LOOK OUT

For the gem offered in "Ready-to-Wear" goods by the merchants in every Friday's POST-DISPATCH.

BUYER'S PURSE TAKEN.

Woman Left Money in House While Pricing Vegetables.

Benjamin Blives, a huckster, living at 1839 Division street, and Meyer Blives, his son, are held by the police, charged with taking a purse from the home of Mrs. Viola Rhodes of 3315 Manchester avenue. Harry Dudley, 18 years old, of 719 North Compton avenue, is held on charge of impersonating an officer in connection with the capture of the huckster and his son.

Blives and his son stopped in front of Mrs. Rhodes' home Wednesday afternoon, and the boy went into the house to ask her if she wanted to buy any vegetables. She went out to the wagon to inspect the wares, leaving her purse containing some money on a table in the house. When she returned it was gone, and she accused the boy of taking it.

HORSE HOISTED IN AIR.

Steel Beam Sawed to Rescue Imprisoned Animal.

The hoisting of a safe never caused such excitement along Olive street as the operations attending the rescue of a horse which broke through the granitoid in the driveway between the Burlington and Odd Fellows' buildings. It took more than an hour to saw through a steel beam under which one of the horse's hind legs was caught and to hoist the animal with block and tackle, and the crowd which assembled almost stopped business in the vicinity.

The horse belonged to the Polar Wave Ice and Coal Co. A load of coal had just been delivered in the Burlington Building Wednesday afternoon and as the wagon was being driven to the street the concrete gave way above a passage way that runs under the drive. The horse walked away after the rescue, apparently unharmed.

We entered the custom house of New York, where we found one lot that proved almost a gift, the goods were so excellent and the prices so low. This was on account of a misunderstanding between custom house officials, a Swiss manufacturer and a New York importer.

FOLK ASSURED OF ICE TRUST ACTION HERE

Governor Confers With Sager—Progress Elsewhere in the State.

SUIT IN KANSAS CITY

President Whitelaw Contends Polar Wave Co. Is Not in the Trust.

in the business. There is no trust, unless you call our company a trust. We have grown until we probably sell 60 per cent of the ice that is sold in St. Louis.

"Having this large trade, we do in a measure fix the price. We want to hold our trade, and we want to increase it. We manufacture more ice in St. Louis than anybody else. We fixed the price at such a figure that no one could undersell us, and we try to keep at the head of the procession.

"Now I want to say that these statements that have appeared from time to time about 60 per cent increases in cost are unfounded. There is an increase in price, it is true. But the cause is due to a combination of circumstances. To begin with, there was not a pound of ice harvested last winter.

Money Lost Last Year.

"The year before there was the largest and best supply of natural ice harvested I ever knew of. We had an army of 400 men at Creve Coeur Lake and we filled our houses with ice 16 inches thick and of the best quality. This supply is not available this year, and the laws of supply and demand ought to convince anyone of this being a good reason for an advance this year. But that is not all. Last year most of the ice men lost money. The prices were too low. Business reasons demanded the increase.

"But, at that, the prices are not increased as has been intimated. The price to families has been spoken of. Last year we sold families a book of 40 coupons, calling for 12½-pound cakes, for $2. We sell ice to persons buying this amount at exactly the same price this year. It is true that butchers and saloon keepers pay an increase. Last year we sold some of them as low as 15 cents a hundred. And we lost money on some of this business. Now we have no flat price to sell this trade this year, like we have the family trade.

"When a tradesman wants ice, we send a man to him to see what he wants. One might want a quantity of ice delivered on the sidewalk. Another might want it carried up to a second floor. Or, he might want it placed in a refrigerator where it would require much time and labor. We study the conditions and then make him a price, and we try to make such a price as will get and hold the business.

"In the family trade it is different. Ice cannot be sold to a family under 40 cents at a profit. The driver stops in front of a house and he runs in to see how large a piece is wanted. He returns to the wagon and cuts the piece. Then he carries it inside. He opens the refrigerator and removes a lot of articles. Perhaps he breaks a dish or a bottle of milk; or destroys some article. Then we hear from the customer, and have to make the loss good. Meantime the wagon has been standing in front and a pool of water indicates a shrinkage. Surely 40 cents is not an exorbitant price."

"It has been contended, Mr. Whitelaw, that your refusal to make contracts indicated a disposition on your part to raise prices and squeeze the trade when the time was ripe. Is this true?"

"No. You may state for me that, under no circumstances, will the price of ice be raised on the family trade this year. As long as we have the ice it will be delivered to families at that price. There is a limit to our production, but the price will not exceed that figure.

"Now, our refusal to make contracts is for a purely business reason. When we made the contract with the city for its supply of ice it was in February. There was no coal strike in sight then, and we thought we were safe. On April 1 a coal strike was inaugurated, just at the beginning of the ice season. Coal is the principal cost of manufacturing ice. There was no telling then where the price was going. We never refused to make a contract, but we did put the figure for contract ice at such a figure as to discourage contracts.

"We buy ice here in St. Louis ourselves. And in some instances the increase we have to pay for the ice we buy is in excess of the raise that we made. We sell the peddlers their supply of ice at our platforms for $3 per ton, or 15 cents a hundred pounds. Anybody in St. Louis can obtain ice at that price at our platform if he will take a 300-pound cake. He can buy it at the platform of any ice manufactory in St. Louis at that price. The breweries will sell to anyone at the same figure. The packing companies and other concerns that make ice will do the same. This is one reason why a trust would be impracticable.

"The small dealers, many of them, complain of the fact that we sell to anyone at the same price. But we cannot distinguish. We have no contracts with the dealers, but we supply them at the market price. And we will give them the preference over our own wagons.

Difference in Handling.

"You must know that there is a difference in manufactured ice and natural ice in the way it is handled. Artificial ice does not come out of the cans all at once. One cake is taken out every few minutes. For instance, it requires 48 hours for a 300-block to form. Take one of our plants that has a capacity for 100 tons per day. There are 1532 cans in this plant and all are required to produce 66⅔ cakes of ice in 24 hours, and this requires one cake to be drawn at a time. It cannot be hurried. Wagons may sometimes have to wait. Of course, we have a reserve store of ice. We have about 16,000 tons of artificial ice now in storage, and this may be drawn on from time to time.

"With natural ice it is different. If the demand should suddenly become large, a big force may enter the icehouses and rush out the supply as it is wanted. The natural ice supply makes itself felt in fixing prices."

"But, Mr. Whitelaw, it has been shown that prices in Southern cities, where there is no natural ice, and never has been, are as low as here in many instances, and even lower in other instances."

"There are reasons for that. In some of the Southern cities there is an overproduction. Many of them produce more ice than can be consumed, and this has a tendency to demoralize prices. Take it in Los Angeles, Cal., mentioned by the Post-Dispatch yesterday, there has been a war on between the ice manufacturers for several years.

"Then, there is another reason why ice in St. Louis might be higher than most any other city. It costs more to produce it here. It actually requires one ton of coal to produce three tons of ice here, and some times it will not produce quite that much. This is because of the water, and sometimes our coal is not of the best quality.

"Now, I know personally about the prices of ice in the South. I was interested in a plant at Memphis several years ago. The plant never made a cent while I owned stock in it, and I took the first opportunity to get out of it.

"Trust an Impossibility."

"I am sure, if the people would give one tithe of the study to the ice business that I have done, they would see that an ice trust in St. Louis, under present circumstances, would be an impossibility, and that we are doing all we can to merit the trade that is being accorded us.

"The ice season is necessarily brief. Yet the expensive plants we own must be in operation winter and summer. The more than 600 men we employ must live in winter as well as summer, and when we are operating to full capacity in the summer, it must be remembered that during the winter months, with the cost running on almost the same, the receipts are almost nothing from ice. The coal and kindling and wood trade aids in keeping our men at work, and if it were not for this combination of branches the prices of ice would necessarily be much higher than they are."

"The statement of the city official quoted in the Post-Dispatch who was told that there was a combination between our company and the Merchants' was doubtless made. But it was made by an employe who only spoke from general knowledge. It was merely his opinion and should not carry conviction with it. Our employes are merely told what the prices are and that is all.

"Now it has been shown that certain establishments have signs conspicuously displayed, saying they are not in the combine. I would like to explain that. These signs were placed by the Griesedieck company three years ago, when we bought out several other companies and enlarged our business. The Griesediecks have been in turn bought out by the Merchants' and the signs were originally put up merely for effect.

"I want to say that I never attended a secret meeting in a lawyer's office in the Laclede Building to raise prices. I was at Judge Fliteraft's office several times in April when I was negotiating for the plant on Plum street, and Judge Fliteraft bought it and I did not get it."

Count in Runaway Accident.

Count Odin, of Roumania, was the victim of a most peculiar runaway accident, near this city, yesterday. This runaway is thrillingly described by Max Pemberton in his great novel, "The Lady Evelyn," which this paper will publish exclusively in serial form, beginning in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch, prior to its publication as a book. It is third of the celebrated $150,000 series.

FREE ICE FUND IN NEED OF $6400 TO FIGHT THE TRUST

Fourfold Increase Essential if Work of the St. Louis Pure Milk Commission Is Successful—Post-Dispatch to Again Take Contributions for the Fund.

The Free Ice Fund must be increased more than fourfold in order that it may successfully compete with the Ice Trust. Unless its competition is successful the work of the St. Louis Pure Milk Commission will fail of its purpose. Without ice in the homes where pure milk is delivered, members of the commission say that it is impossible to keep the milk in a condition so that it can be drunk by children.

When ice was reasonably priced last year, some of those who bought milk were also able to buy ice. The present rates have placed ice beyond their reach. A number of them feel that while milk is a necessity for their children ice is a luxury which they cannot think of buying.

When the milk spoils, as it cannot help doing since it is kept on ice for hours before it is delivered, parents become discouraged and return to the use of foods that, while not so healthful for their children, can be kept without ice.

Many persons in thinking of the cool weather with which St. Louis has been favored for the last few months, imagine that it has made the need of ice less in the homes of the poor. Ice has been necessary since the first of June and for some weeks before.

The invalids and small children, for whose benefit ice is given, must have ice to preserve their foods, or the foods will not last long enough to be of service.

The distribution of ice tickets and free milk is accomplished, as it was last summer, the visitor for the one making reports and requests for the other.

Work of Commission.

The St. Louis Pure Milk Commission has since its organization in the spring of 1904 delievered 377,850 bottles of modified and sterilized milk. Its record for a new year was begun Feb. 15, 1906.

Seventeen stations have been established for the distribution of the milk. Those who can pay 1 or 2 cents per bottle for modified milk and 3 cents for whole milk. A deposit of 2 cents per bottle for the first supply is required in order to insure the return of the bottles.

In cases where persons are unable to pay for the milk it is provided without charge. The visitor of the Pure Milk Commission sees that ice is delivered without cost to those who can not pay for their milk, knowing that it will be worse than useless without the ice. She also asks how the milk is kept by the persons who pay for it and when she finds that some of them are unable to buy ice, she places their names on the free list.

The Post-Dispatch, through the generosity of its readers, was able to give $1600 to the milk and ice fund last year. Four times as much money will be necessary to accomplish the same amount of good unless the price of ice is reduced.

Reports made to the distributing stations of persons who are in need of ice will be given attention. These stations are as follows:

St. Louis City Mission, 14 North Seventh street; St. Louis Provident Association, 1623 Washington avenue; United Jewish Charities, Ninth and Carr streets; Niedringhaus Memorial Settlement, Seventh and Cass avenue; Sloan Mission, 803 Hickory street; Milk Laboratory, 1726 North Thirteenth street, South Side Day Nursery, 1621 South Tenth street; Broom's grocery, 2619 Cass avenue; Reinagle's market, 911 South Fourteenth street; Kleinhahn candy store, 2318 Chouteau avenue; St. Louis Children's Hospital, Jefferson avenue and Adams street; Haefner's confectionery, 3538 South Broadway; Holy Cross Mission Dispensary, 1402 North Fourteenth street; Everding Bros., 602 South Jefferson avenue; City Dispensary, Branch No. 1, Broadway and Salisbury street; Shenandoah Avenue Baptist Church Mission, Seventh and Shenandoah avenue; Herman Frieh's bakery, 320 Victor street.

Aid From Post-Dispatch.

In the reports of the Pure Milk Commission, recognition is given the work done with the $1600 received from the Post-Dispatch. This language is used: "A contribution of $1600 from the Post-Dispatch made it possible to continue distribution through the winter to date. This timely help calls for special acknowledgment on the part of the commission."

This report was made under the direction of the secretary of the commission, W. H. McClain. Publication of donations for both funds begins today and it is hope that the receipts will be equal to the increased demand.

As was done last year, the free distribution of ice will be made through the King's Daughters.

GRAND JURY INDICTS THAW FOR MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

Prosecution Seeks to Prove They Were Together Three Hours on Thursday Preceding Tragedy, and That Knowledge of this Fact Made Thaw a Murderer.

MRS. THAW WILL NOT ANSWER GRAND JURY

Says She Will Go to Prison Rather Than Testify—Coroner's Jury Holds Millionaire Responsible for White's Death — Wife Not Permitted to Attend Inquest.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 28.—The grand jury today returned an indictment against Harry Kendall Thaw, who shot Architect Stanford White to death in Madison Square Roof Garden Monday night.

The indictment charges murder in the first degree. Thaw will plead to the indictment before Justice Cowin tomorrow.

The prosecution is working on the theory that Mrs. Harry Thaw and White were together for more than three hours in the Martin Cafe at Broadway and Twenty-sixth street on the Thursday before the night of the shooting.

The line of investigation by the District Attorney's assistants is all intended to establish this fact. They have questioned waiters, cabmen and other employes of the place, and several of the most frequent visitors there, and it is clearly their intention to present this fact. If they can establish it, as the motive that urged Thaw to desperately plan the killing of White.

When the inquest into the murder was opened today, Thaw was brought into court. He seemed to be quite collected. He wore a crumpled grey suit, a handkerchief somewhat the worse for wear was tied around his neck in place of a collar, and he had a two-days' growth of beard. He was without doubt a surprisingly ill-kept star prisoner.

The story of the shooting was related formally by the witnesses. There were no new revelations.

As Dr. Lehane, the Coroner's physician, described the wounds that caused the death of White, the accused man sat as indifferent as if watching a familiar scene on the stage. Once only, when the doctor spoke of "the immediate cause of death," the prisoner's eyes glittered with a sinister gleam that indicated to the close observer that he was pleased with the result, if he did not care to show it.

Lionel Lawrence, stage director at the Madison Square Garden Theater, testified that immediately after the shooting Mrs. Thaw rushed up to her husband, and throwing her arms around his neck, said: "Never mind, Harry, I will stick to you through thick and thin." Thaw turned to the crowd which sourrounded them and answered: "That —— ruined my wife and I got him and I fixed him for it."

Soon after the close of the Coroner's inquest the proceedings against Thaw were begun before the grand jury. At noon Mrs. Thaw entered the grand jury room, accompanied by her counsel, Judge Olcott and Terrence McManus.

Mrs. Thaw remained in the grand jury room about 15 minutes. She left in company with her husband's counsel and together they went to the Tombs to visit the prisoner.

The Coroner's jury consisted of three butchers, two grocers, two plumbers, two tailors, a jeweler, a coal dealer and a dry goods man.

Describe Fatal Wounds.

Dr. Lehane's testimony showed that White was 52 years and 7 months old, and was born in New York City. He said there were three bullet holes in the body. The first was located in the right upper eyelid between the angle of the nose and the upper angle of the mouth on the right side. The bullet in passing into the head destroyed three teeth, one canine, one incisor and one bicuspid, which he found in the mouth, together with clotted blood.

"I pushed the bullet forward," he said, "into the left nasal cavity. There were powder burns all over the right side of the face from the edge of the hair to and below the chin."

Dr. Lehane said further that there were two bullet wounds in the shoulder, half an inch apart. One bullet was imbedded in the right humerus, three inches from the scapula and ranging downward. The witness gave a full technical description of the wounds.

The case went to the Coroner's jury at 11 o'clock. There was nothing offered by the defense. The jury retired for a few minutes and then announced their verdict:

"We find that the deceased, Stanford White, came to his death from pistol shot wounds inflicted on the head and abdomen by the prisoner, Harry Kendall Thaw."

Thaw was immediately taken back to his cell, where he prepared to appear before the grand jury.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the pretty wife of Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, the millionaire architect and man, has announced that she will prison rather than testify before the grand jury. She is under subpena to appear before that body today, and it is the intention of Acting District Attorney Nott to make a witness for the people.

Whether Mrs. Thaw, in refusing to testify in her husband's case, is acting under the instructions of her lawyer, or carrying out her own ideas in the matter, nobody directly connected with the case will say. Both Mr. Nott and his assistant, Mr. Garvan, are determined that the woman shall go before the grand jury where she can be under oath and where it is expected to learn from her enough to establish the motive which actuated Thaw in killing Stanford White.

Mr. Nott says that Mrs. Thaw cannot claim the privilege of refusing to answer questions just because she is the wife of a man accused of crime, and that this privilege is extended only to what are known as "confidential communications" between husband and wife. If she refuses to answer other questions she can be committed for contempt of Court.

She may refuse on the ground that the answers might tend to degrade or incriminate her, and also she has the right to refuse to answer questions on the ground that the answers might tend to convict her of a crime.

It is understood that Mrs. Thaw told her husband when she called upon him in the Tombs yesterday that she would obey the subpena of the grand jury so far as calling at the grand jury room was concerned, but that under no circumstances would she permit anybody to question her, and that if the Acting District Attorney insisted on putting questions to her she would positively refuse to make any reply to them.

The legal question of what testimony a wife may or may not give against her husband is important in Thaw's case. Under the old common law a wife could not be compelled to give any evidence against her husband, but the revised penal code of the State of New York modified this absolute barrier.

Question Is Very Broad.

This law has been raised in numerous cases in various phases and courts have laid down a variety of rulings on what constitutes a confidential communication between husband and wife. In a general way the tendency of decisions has been liberal rather than closely prohibitive. In the Thaw case, Mrs. Thaw could not refuse to disclose communications between Thaw and herself occurring before marriage. Nor could she legally decline to answer questions regarding White which did not involve her husband.

There is a persistent rumor that Stanford White bragged of his betrayal of Miss Nesbit and that he had done so frequently since her marriage to Thaw. Up to the present this rumor cannot be confirmed. He is alleged to have so declared himself on Monday evening at Martin's during the dinner hour, and a diner is said to have told the District Attorney's office he heard the remark although seated three tables away. This seems an improbable story, as it has been shown conclusively that White dined with his own son that evening.

On this point much depends. If it can be proved that White had carried on a campaign of taunting it is by many considered likely that Thaw will have an easy time before a New York jury.

On the other hand it is asserted that White was absolutely innocent of Miss Nesbit's charge that he betrayed her. Not only innocent, but it is asserted that Miss Nesbit had frequently declared that a preacher's son was her betrayer. In fact, this report has it that Miss Nesbit never fixed upon White as the man until after he took her up as his toy. Like many of the other reports this one lacks verification.

Millions for Defense.

The last of the Thaw relatives, headed by Benjamin Thaw, a half-brother of Harry Kendall Thaw, have arrived in New York to assist in trying to clear the trouble into which young Thaw has plunged himself. The party seems satisfied that Thaw was more sinned against than sinning. There was a conference between members of the family and attorneys in Pittsburg before the start was made for New York, and later it was announced that the Thaw family would spend every cent of the $40,000,000 estate if necessary to clear the skirts of the young man.

A cablegram was sent to Europe instructing Attorney D. T. Wilson, the famous Pittsburg lawyer, to meet Mrs. William Thaw on her arrival at Liverpool on the Minneapolis and consult with her regarding the defense. Mrs. Thaw is expected to land not later than Saturday, and it is thought Watson will be heard from at New York within a few hours after the steamer arrives. At the Pittsburg offices of Mr. Watson it was not denied that he had been asked to take the case of young Thaw.

Mr. Watson is, perhaps, one of the best known attorneys in the country. He gained fame as a member of the Alaskan Boundary Claims Commission.

White Buried Thursday.

They buried Stanford White's body in the old cemetery out at St. James, L. I., this morning. It is unfortunate that his deeds were not buried with him. But they live and seem to grow.

New stories are being told hourly and the old ones are revamped so often that the mind sickens at the allegations of the dead millionaire's villainy. It is a sad blot on his memory that nothing within the range of human depravity fails to find ready acceptance as the truth by those who knew him.

FATHER CONSIDERED THAW IRRESPONSIBLE.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 28.—That William Thaw believed that his son, Harry Kendall Thaw, was irresponsible, is evidenced by a codicil which he added to his will on July 5, 1889, and which was unearthed today. The codicil reads in part as follows:

"With great regret and reluctance and solely from a sense of duty, I hereby cancel and revoke any and all provisions of my said will, directing payment of money or property to my said son, Harry Kendall Thaw, and in lieu thereof, do now will and direct that the equal part * * * shall be taken, held and managed by the executors of my will in trust * * * to pay him, after he shall have reached his majority, for and during his natural life, the sum of $2400 per annum. * * *

"All the foregoing provisions of this codicil, are, however, subject to this further provision respecting my said son, Harry Kendall Thaw, viz., that if at any time in the judgment of a majority of the executors of my said will he shall have shown such settled character and course of life as to indicate proper capacity, discretion and fitness for the receipt, care and expenditure of the income or estate originally designed for him, are authorized and empowered to carry out and perform all of the provisions of my said will in respect to my son, Harry Kendall Thaw."

That Harry Kendall Thaw never showed this "discretion and fitness" is evidenced by the fact that there is no record of the executors ever having agreed to give the young man his full share of the estate.

Thus it comes out that Harry Kendall Thaw, during all the years of his wild escapades, had been living on money which was given to him by his mother. The one-sixteenth of the Thaw fortune, which would have been Harry's had it not been for the codicil, would have amounted to about $70,000 a year. Since he came of age, Harry Thaw has been receiving practically this amount. It was paid by his mother out of her three shares, while Harry's share has been reverting to the estate.

INQUEST CONTINUED.

Contradictory Testimony Before Coroner's Jury.

Inquest on the body of Amelia Gilchrist, a negress, 24 years old, who died at 9 a. m. Tuesday, was continued till Saturday. She is thought to have been poisoned and the testimony of the 12 negroes before the Coroner's jury was contradictory.

Ten days ago Tom Watkins and Dick Kent were among a party of negroes who drove to Pittsburg Lake on a picnic. George Mueller, a white man, who was driving the hack, was shot. Watkins is in Jail at Belleville on a charge of murder and Kent is out on bond. The Gilchrist woman was the leading witness for the State in the case.

One of the witnesses stated to the Coroner's jury that the Gilchrist woman said she was poisoned just before she expired, while others deny that she said anything. Five detectives are at work on the case.

WIND BLOWS OVER TRAIN OF CARS

Twenty Japanese Laborers Injured in Accident in Wyoming.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 28. — High wind early today blew over a train of 11 cars at Weir, a small station east of Cheyenne. The cars were used as quarters for Japanese laborers and were on a siding at the time of the accident. Twenty laborers were injured, seven seriously.

The wind also blew down about a mile of telegraph poles and did other damage.

MILLIONAIRES ARE AT WORK AS TEAMSTERS

Heads of Du Pont Powder Mills Obliged to Take Places of Striking Employes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 28.—Prominent members of the millionaire Du Pont family, who are officials of Du Pont Powder Co., are compelled to act as ordinary teamsters because of a strike at the big works. The powder makers and other employes at the plant near here went out a week ago when their demand for an eight-hour day was refused. The strike spread to other workmen, with the result that the works are badly crippled.

Victor Du Pont third, son of Victor Du Pont, general manager of the powder plant, is now driving a team and is busily engaged from early morning until night removing powder from the various mills to the magazines and storage houses. He accepts his dangerous task without complaint. Others of the Du Ponts are similarly engaged.

The outlook for a settlement of the strike is not encouraging, no overtures having been made by either side. It is announced that as the Du Ponts now control all of the largest powder plants in the country the works near here may be closed unless the strike shall soon end. The trouble has spread to the Du Ponts works at Carney's Point, N. J., where 80 men are out.

Frisco Gets More Track.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO CITY, June 28.—It is reported on trustworthy authority that the National Railroad Co. has sold its Texas-Mexican line, which runs from Laredo, Tex., to Corpus Christi, Tex., to B. F. Yoakum and associates, and that it will be operated as a part of the Rock Island-Frisco system. The Texas-Mexican line is 161 miles long.

Caller Takes Trousers.

A pretended real estate agent who waited to see Mark Chartrand "on business" in the parlor of Mr. Chartrand's home at 720 Aubert avenue, disappeared with Mrs. Chartrand's purse containing $5, and a pair of Mr. Chartrand's trousers, when left alone a few minutes.

TERRE HAUTE'S MAYOR OUSTED BY COUNCIL

Chief Executive Impeached for Failure to Put Lid on Gambling and Saloons.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 28.—The City Council by a vote of six to three, under impeachment proceedings instituted by five councilmen, last night found Mayor Edwin J. Bindaman guilty and removed him from office, handing over the reins of the city government to City Comptroller Frank M. Buckingham.

The charges were that the Mayor had willfully neglected to enforce the laws against the saloons and gambling. The Mayor is a Republican and the two-thirds vote necessary to impeach was made up of five Republicans and one Democrat, while the minority was represented by two Democrats and one Republican. The Mayor did not go on the stand in his own behalf.

The impeachment of Mayor Bindaman is the climax of a year's effort directed toward the enforcement of the laws, Terre Haute being known for years as a wide-open city. About six months ago an effort was made to remove him, and a sensational trial was had, resulting in a vote of five for impeachment when six votes were needed. At that time the Manufacturers' Club was behind the proceedings. This time the charges were made by five councilmen and three of them were witnesses. Bindaman's term would expire next September, when he would be succeeded by Mayor [illegible], Democrat. The six councilmen say they will also impeach Lyons if he runs a wide-open city.

Bidaman declares he is still Mayor and proposes to hold the office, and City Comptroller Buckingham, who was declared Mayor by the Council, has made no move as yet toward enforcing his claims to the office. Buckingham spent the morning in consultation with his attorneys as to what course to pursue. He says that he will determine what his legal rights are before making a step. The police force remains loyal to Bidaman.

JUDGE RYAN'S DECISION.

Lawyers differ concerning the decision of Judge Ryan enforcing the clause of the anti-trust law which relieves purchasers of liability for the payment of bills for trust goods. Mr. John D. Johnson, attorney for the Waters-Pierce Oil Co. represents the opposition in the opinion that the law violates the State and Federal constitutions in that it impairs the validity of contracts and deprives the seller of his property without due process of law.

On the other hand, former Supreme Judge Shepherd Barclay approves the decision, saying that there is no better way of enforcing the law than to take it at its word and forbid any company or concern recovering in court for debts created in violation of its terms. The idea is that "one should not invoke and use the law while at the same time he defies it." He refers to the transaction as tainted under the law with the infamy of its illegal origin.

Under the laws of Missouri trusts are outlawed. Their charters are forfeited and they are forbidden to do business in the State. The law recognizes them only as proper objects of punishment. This particular clause treats them as outlaws not entitled to the benefit of legal protection or processes. It is based on the equity principle that one must come into court with clean hands and that the violator of law cannot plead rights under the law.

Why should we concern ourselves with the question of justice to corporations which combine in an illegal manner to work injustice and oppression on the people and which defiantly violate the law and the principles of justice? These corporations can obey the law, do justice and thus place themselves in position to enjoy the benefits of the law's protection. Why should they appeal to the law to make good their illegal and iniquitous transactions?

Judge Ryan's decision enforces the letter and the spirit of the law. If it is sustained it will make short work of the task of destroying the trusts in this State.

Why not reduce the Filipinos by introducing our method of celebrating the Fourth?

BOSTON'S CONDESCENSION.

The revelations of boodle in Boston make discouraging reading.

It has been supposed that whatever conditions might arise in other parts of the country, in Boston only the purest idealism could flourish. The cradle of liberty is there; Dante clubs abound, Emerson is a best seller and opticians make more money than in any other city in the country. In all respects Boston has been regarded as utterly respectable and morally immune.

But the virus of boodle has got into the community's system. There are dark hints that Moran is following a trail which will lead into the haunts of the eminent in social life, into the offices of men powerful in business and politics.

Boston, then, is no better than St. Louis or Philadelphia, where the wicked have been smoked out and some of the insignificant offenders punished. Boston is corrupt.

Western people have always liked Boston, but haven't dared to be real friendly like, because we felt awed by the superiority of the place. But we pluck up heart. We are all sinners; Boston is in the same boat with us. If Boston condescends to sin now and then, we needn't despair. There is hope for all.

The new Oregon Congressmen are described as "Roosevelt Republicans." Is this intended for an improvement in Oregon statesmen?

PERILS OF "BOHEMIA."

Evelyn Nesbit was a prodigy. As a little child her nimble feet, her dainty grace, her sweet voice and beautiful face charmed audiences of the folk among whom she was reared. Her mother, gloating over these successes, saw but one career for the child and took her to that great market for female charms, the theatrical center of New York. In its superheated atmosphere, where only the moral Samsons may keep their souls' health, she won recognition for the qualities that had delighted Pittsburg.

Foolish ones call the sphere in which she moved Bohemia and poetize its freedom from convention, its contempt for those restraints which the sane set on the relations of men and women, its perverted perspective and its indulgences without thought of consequences. To win much money and spend it wildly is the paradisial hope of all who enter this sphere. Success is measured in dollars won and wasted. That this girl might gain the reward, might win the great success, she was given the freedom of this "Bohemia."

The story of her career is only a glamored version of the fateful episodes through which thousands of proud mothers' daughters pass to the sink of the world. On every side of her were the moral carnivora who clawed for the maddening beauty of her body and left their imprints on her soul. Innocence, and lack of that proper guardianship with which wise motherhood enfolds the young, appeal to the crew that infest the environs of the stage as added charm. Fatuously sure of that innocence, her natural guardians left her in the center of great danger.

That a man was killed on Monday night will cure none of his kind who survive. That Evelyn Nesbit's story was blazoned in consequence of this disaster should open the eyes of mothers who are in danger of being blinded to their daughters' dangers by the splendid glamor of the stage.

The passing of the Fair Grounds purchase bill at the original price of the owners by the House of Delegates is another sample of the sacrifice of public to private interests. The real estate experts who appraised the Fair Grounds for the city placed its value at about $1,000,000 for the land and improvements, which, with interest on deferred payments, would bring the price several hundred thousand dollars below that asked by the owners. But the House of Delegates unexpectedly and without proper hearing or consideration, voted to pay the owners their excessive price. The public interest is thrust aside for the benefit of individuals.

NOW FOR THE INVESTIGATION.

President Forman of the City Council has accepted Mr. August Busch's challenge concerning his reference to a combine in the Council on the Manufacturers' Railway bill, but instead of confiding to Mr. Busch whatever information he may think available on that subject, he proposes an investigation by a committee of the Council. He gives notice in his letter to Mr. Busch that he will take the steps necessary to the appointment of an investigating committee to hold a public inquiry on the subject.

The only inference that can be drawn from this letter of Mr. Forman's is that the President of the Council believes that there was a combine in favor of the bill, and that improper influences were used to obtain the passage of the measure. He evidently believes that information which ought to be known to the public is available. His proposal of an investigation committee carries a clear intimation of his belief in the necessity of an investigation in order to inform the public.

Since the challenge came from Mr. Busch and since the supporters of the measure in the Council have vigorously protested against Mr. Forman's statements, we are justified in anticipating from them favorable action on the proposed resolution. Both Councilmen Cramer and Linde say that they will support the movement for an investigation. To oppose this investigation or to attempt in any way to hamper its work would be a confession.

While this investigation is on, the propriety of delaying any action on the Manufacturers' Railway bill ought to be manifest to a majority of the House of Delegates. The Post-Dispatch does not believe that any terminal franchise bill ought to be passed until after the plans for the municipal bridge have been made. We do not believe that the Manufacturers' Railway bill in its present form should ever be passed. But certainly no action should be taken upon it while the methods used in pushing it through the Council are in question.

New York tailors are discontented because G. V. Winter of London is being imported to revise the cut of United States Army uniforms. The War Department announces that it has no intention of introducing tweeds and plaids but desires "a more military cut" of the regulation materials. Mr. Winter is probably not one of the Bond street tailors who supply touring Americans with clothes built on the model of a gunnysack.

A LITERARY "APPRECIATION."

It was demonstrated by the statistics of last year and the year before that all who expect the highest rewards of literature must suit the tastes of the new woman, and new women, it is shown, now do most of the reading and the honors of those who supply what is highest and finest in literature depend on their verdict.

It seems that in contributing what is highest and finest to the literature of Chicago, Mr. Eader, the Denver novelist, recognized this and was rewarded accordingly. Supporting his wife and children in Denver on the proceeds of fiction published in Chicago, he thought, no doubt, that this was all he could expect.

He was mistaken. He had awakened Chicago to the Denver ideal. As a result of her admiration for his ideal, Mrs. Tudor Stearns (or perhaps Kearns) of Chicago appeared suddenly in Denver She had an automobile ready to carry the Denver novelist away that she might share his ideal life. It seems that on his repeated refusal to enter the automobile and on his final declaration that he would not give up his wife and children for ideal experiments of any kind, Mrs. Tudor Stearns or Kearns told him that she could never give him up and that they must die together, at once.

Having happily escaped this first danger of his growing fame and being now under the protection of the Denver police, Mr. Eader has serious reasons for reflecting on what it means to be fully appreciated in these strenuous times. Perhaps he would better draw his Denver ideals of happiness a little milder, when he offers them for literary consumption in Chicago hereafter. Or else the next admirer who arrives from Chicago in an automobile may overcome his objections to the logical consequences of Chicago appreciation.

Young America is largely in contempt of the Supreme Court of Indiana, which has held in two cases that it is unlawful to ride a bicycle on sidewalks.

By the time Congress meets again some easy means may be found for blowing up the great battleship whose building has been postponed.

With 33 prohibited chemicals in the hamburger, sausages and ham loaf of Indiana, there must soon be a decline in Indiana literature.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S OPPORTUNITY.

From the New York World.

It is easy enough to understand why the Republican Committee, in the face of a Congressional election, should oppose a measure which would prevent "fat-frying" and make it a misdemeanor to "shake down" the great corporations, but we cannot understand why Theodore Roosevelt should neglect this golden opportunity to "make the deed square with the word."

Only seven days till Bennie
With his punk and other things,

Gets himself a pair of wings.

THIS SEASON'S FIREWORKS.

Small firecrackers will be held in the hand, as usual, burning the finger ends slightly and causing that discoloration so much prized by smokers of cigarettes.

Small pinwheels will not be pinned on the porch this year. It has been ascertained that one can get more sport for a cent by attaching them to the baby's back.

Cannon crackers will continue to be shot under grandfather's chair. Grandfather is too deaf to mind it, and if his pants catch fire it is very amusing. Of course, if the fire spreads to his hose, that ends it.

Hand torpedoes are a little larger than they were last year. To get the best effect, wait until the cook is looking into the oven of the gas stove. Then explode the torpedo under her. Usually she will leap forward, thrusting her head into the oven and burning her ear to a nice crisp. This is excruciatingly funny.

Sky rockets have been improved. The sticks now carry at the base a small bomb, which explodes with a terrific report when the stick comes down. If the shooting trough is carefully slanted so the sticks will come down upon some neighbor's slate roof it is possible to amuse all the rest of the neighborhood.

Toy cannon are a little larger this season, and the safety devices upon the 1905 model have been removed. The toy cannon was so safe last year that the boys wouldn't shoot it, preferring to put powder and marbles in old tomato cans. The fuse eye has been made as small as the eye of a needle, insuring enough trouble with firing to make the day exciting and the hospital corps hurry.

Roman candles will carry a new color this year—mauve. The old colors will be retained. The explosiveness of the powder has been increased until any boy can burn off his eyebrows by cutting into a half-burned candle with a common jack-knife. To amuse very small children, set two of them in a double-bowed baby carriage and give each of them a lighted candle. This is simply killing.

AT THE UNION STATION

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Roy L. McCardell.

SCENE—AT THE CORNER.

Busy evening at Eighteenth and Market streets. Throngs of people going to and from the station. Man-eating cars running the crossing. Clang! Clang! Clang! (Accompaniment of switch irons against dashboards.) Whack! Whack! Whack!

FOUR motormen (to bunch of scurrying men, women and children they have just missed running over)—Dash your blankety, blank, blank eyes! Look out the way!

Man Carrying a Lawn Mower to Kirkwood: Phew! I'd sooner be killed than be cursed that way!

Woman with Eight Children: Now, mind, Gertie, when I tell the conductor that Tommy and Georgie and little Emma are under five years of age don't you make a liar of me again!

Bewildered Stranger: What car do I take for—

Policeman: Move on! Don't block the way!

Chorus of Newsboys: Uxtry! Uxtry! All about the moidoih!

Girl Chewing Gum: An' I says to her, I says, dontcher never speak to me again, Mamie Reilly, after watcher said about me!

Other Gum-Chewing Girl: Aint she gotter nerve? Say, Gus was telling me he'd be down. Never has any money to treat his lady friends, but he's a lovely dancer.

(Woman with Three Children rushes to middle of one track and backs from approaching car in front of another. She is rescued with much show of gallantry, only to denounce everybody for making her miss her car.)

St. Louisan (horrifying Country Cousin): A dozen people are injured here a day and the place is infested with pickpockets. Look out for your wad and your watch.

Country Cousin: Ain't got any with me.

St. Louisan (jostled by two young men): Look where you're going, can't you! (A moment later) Where's my scarfpin? Where's my pocketbook? (Accuses the police of standing in with pickpockets and threatens to have them broke.)

Country Cousin: By George! I wouldn't live in this town ef you was to give it to me!

(Loud clanging of trolley gongs, shrieks of distracted mothers, excursions and alarums.)

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

This column is open for discussion of public questions. Letters should not exceed 150 words.

Misses the Point.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I wish to write a few words as to wanton killing of women and children at Jolo. I may not be as well qualified to write on this subject as those that have not been here nor ever saw a Moro.

But if some one of those knights (in their own eyes—I call them men in woman's clothing) can be induced to make a trip over here, I will wager his expense that he cannot tell a female from a male at 100 yards distance when no fighting is taking place, and when they are making a rush with bolos he will think they are many times worse than anything he ever read of in his dime novel, where he no doubt got his gallant ideas.

I refer to your editorial, "A Soldier's Protest," in your issue of March 14, also letter under same caption, signed Illinois Volunteer.

This is not the first time the army has been criticised unjustly. The same attacks were made on it in years gone by, but in a minor key, while opening up the country from the Mississippi to the Pacific for homes for you and yours, in comments on its many contacts with the plains Indians.

And now they strike at us from across the Pacific Ocean in our absence from home on duty, unable to personally resent the slanders and slurs of self-styled patriots.

If politics is making you prejudiced against the army, for the country's good cut it out. ARCHIE BRYCE.
Sergeant of the Regular Army.

The Ice Question.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In an interview printed in one of the Sunday papers the president of the largest ice company in the city, makes the assertion that the price of ice is the same to small consumers this summer as it was last. I am one of the multitude of small consumers who can prove this statement to be absolutely false. We can prove that the price of a piece of ice, the size for which we paid 5 cents for last summer we pay 10 cents for now, and that it melts faster than it did last summer. Also that it was placed in the box last summer, just as it is this summer. F. L. G.

Savage Dogs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your editorial urging the passage of an ordinance compelling people to muzzle their dogs is very timely. Some of your readers who may have read your humane editorial today with indifference will be surprised to know that when anyone is seriously injured by a vicious dog and the owner of the dog has been negligent, it is possible to have him sent to the penitentiary. If they doubt this, they may be referred to the Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1899, Sec. 1849; after which Sec. 1850 should be read, showing the particular application to this case.

These statutes should be carried out, but it is doubtful if many know of their existence. JUSTICE.

Marriage Licenses.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am delighted to know that the marriage license clerks of our little cities such as East St. Louis, Clayton, Belleville, etc., have at last received instructions prohibiting the granting of marriage licenses to little children and old men, such as has come under my observation twice in the last four weeks. I happened to be a witness to the grief of the poor little mother who came out to Clayton, May 19, and found that her 15-year-old daughter had been granted a license to wed a deaf mute 36 years of age.

It is very sad to think that a justice of the peace would marry such people and cause such grief and trouble to parents. Why is the law not enforced in such cases? No girl under 18 shall Marry? HARRY ANDERSON.

ESSAYS OF ERROR

On the Back-to-Nature Bug and How It Can Put the Cicada Sign on You When You Really Get It.

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Clark McAdams.

WE GET along, but slowly. Our ears are still attuned to strange voices, and our feet cannot be trusted unhitched where there are so many false gods. Though physically done with evolution, man remains, mentally, pretty much of a monk.

It is incredible that Dowieism should be catching in the Twentieth Century, but the tell-tale placard yells yellowly before many an otherwise happy home. It is astonishing that the clairvoyant should be able to live, but she has an automobile. It is dumfounding that we should still hold no other music so sweet as the bleating of the golden calf, but, grasping, as we are, we are all thumbs for the truth.

The psalmist says to keep sweet. But how to keep sane?

There is but one thing in friendship sadder than burying a friend, and that is discovering one with a newly acquired bug. Sociologists and economists frequently discuss the probable life of our civilisation and the agencies which shall drive us back to our all-fours and the trees of the banderlog. The answer of course, is pretty soon, now; cause; the reform bug. There is no other such proselyter, nor is there aught else which can so quickly and easily cause a sane man to stultify himself.

For Heaven's sake, don't acquire a bug. Think in the rut and live in it, for once out of it you're a goner—and ding-dong comes the booby buggy.

To illustrate: We have heard a good deal of going back to nature. It originated in Battle Creek, and has been especially insistent since "The Jungle." Over in Europe we have the answer. There is a Back-to-Nature cult in Switzerland. It has an active membership of 300, including a number of persons who are wealthy. The whole colony has left home and gone to live in the caves overlooking an Alpine lake. They wear this-beats-the-beach clothes, eat no meat, drink no wine, and are out-Wagnering Pastor Wagner in the simple life stunt.

Let us be warned. Carry a brick in the loose bosom of your summer shirt, and the first time anyone says "Back to Nature" again, let him have it where it will do the most good. We have wavered toward this thing, and now we know whither it leads. It means good-by to our happy homes. Like troglodytes, we would live in caves. Think of us leaving Lindell boulevard to go back to Cliff Cave, or withdrawing from our mansions in Washington Terrace to dwell in Uhrig's Cave. Fancy us going share and share alike with the bats and salamanders, while people with more sense and of another faith moved into our comfortable and hygienic houses.

There has been a world of foolishness about getting close to Nature. Avoid Nature as you would a pickpocket. She'll touch you for your key bell, and there will be no more chimes in your belfry. When you get the Nature bug they put you away in a cave. It is without bath. It may have cold, but it is sans hot. Keep sane.

E. S. H.—Missouri claims in its zinc and lead deposits more mineral wealth than the gold deposits of California or Colorado. While $700,000,000 worth of these materials has been taken out, it is asserted that their development has only begun. The State's yield in these minerals alone is claimed to have been greater than the total product of Colorado. It produces 80 per cent of all the zinc and 20 per cent of all the nickel mined in the United States, while its relative position as to lead is nearly the same. In addition to the Joplin district in Southwest Missouri a new field is being developed in Washington County within 40 miles of St. Louis, which is said to be quite as rich, if not more so, in zinc and lead as the former.

NEW RUNES BY THE RHYMERS

Song of the Pearl.

Archie Sullivan in Appleton's Magazine for July.

I was made for the smallest hands to press,
For the softest kiss and the still caress,
For the whispered peace of a night in June,
For tired eyes that watch the moon.
I was made for grief and for hearts that break
To passionate tears for the loved one's sake;
My soul is a mist, my heart a sea,
And I pave the floors of eternity.

June Weddings.

W. J. Lampton in the New York World.

There's a swell of stately music,
There's a chancel full of bloom,
There's a crowd of well-gowned women,
There's a churchful of perfume.

There's a bunch of orange blossoms,
There's a shy and shrinking smile,
There's a swish of veil and chiffon,
There's a ribbon down the aisle.

There's a sweetly solemn pastor,
There's a whisper now and then,
There's a ring upon the finger,
There's a joyous Amen.

There's a rush of raw reporters,
With a diction that's sublime,
And the lovely wedding write-ups
Are working overtime.

The Glorious Fourth.

There was a patriotic youth
Who dearly loved a maiden,
But, being very bashful, he
Proposing kept evading—
Until they went one glorious Fourth
To see the men parading.

The big guns boomed, the bugles blew,
The horses' footsteps clattered;
While rattling drums, exploding bombs,
Along the line were scattered;
And noisy boys fired crickers big
Till every nerve was shattered.

"O! everything is popping, George!"
She said with eyes that flirted,
Before he knew he took the hint,
And something to her blurted—
Then heard through din of noisy Fourth
A "Yes" from lips averted.
—May Kelley in July Lippincott's Magazine.

The Other Boy Helped.

Pitcher Orth of the American League was about to go into the field for practice the other afternoon for the second game with Chicago, when one of his shoelaces broke. "Say, boy," he called to a youth who was standing nearby eyeing the big pitcher with admiration, "run out and buy me a pair of laces, will you? Tell the man at the gate you are going out for me and he'll pass you back all right."

The boy took the coin offered and darted away like a shot, proud as a king over the importance of the mission confided to him. Outside the grounds he met several companions, to whom he boasted as only a small boy can of the honor conferred upon him. A few minutes later he reappeared at the gate. With him was a youth about his own age. The shoelace messenger recalled to the guardian of the gate that he was to be permitted to pass by virtue of his errand.

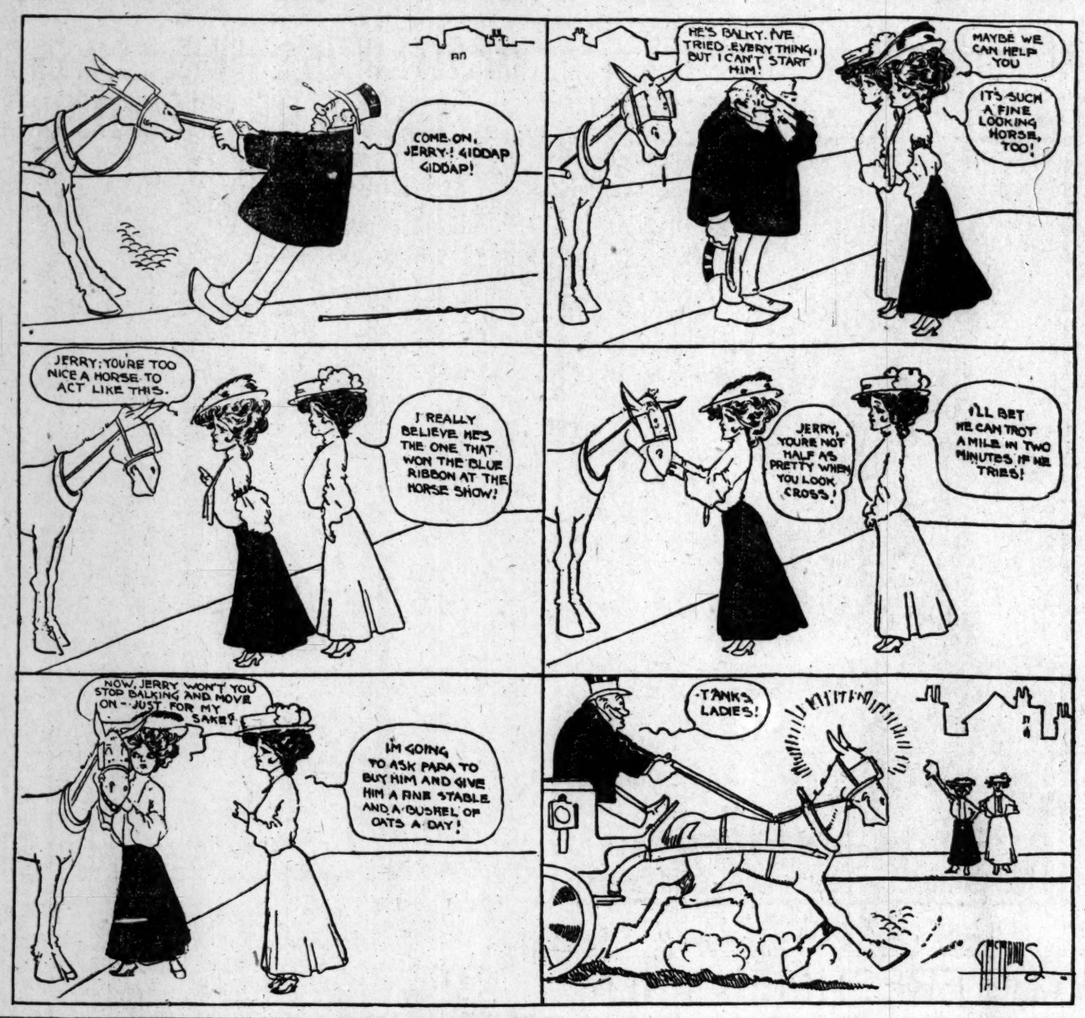

"That's all right. Go ahead in. But who's this other fellow?"

"He's helpin' me," said the boy with a grin. "He's got one shoelace and I've got the other."

The grim custodian tried not to smile, but he couldn't help it, and both boys entered.

LAY FIGURES AND CASH REGISTERS

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

THE author of a satirical letter last week told of a friend whom he had discovered lost in admiration before a beautifully apparelled lay figure in a shop window. The friend explained that he was contemplating the purchase of the gigantic doll, as he thought it would serve his interests better than getting married.

"It will always look pretty, always be well dressed, and it can't talk back or have nervous prostration," was the substance of his explanation.

He may have thought this notion original. It is, however, the basis of most matrimonial ventures that result unhappily. If so many wives were not chosen for lay figures they might possibly amount to something more.

And if, similarly, husbands were not selected on the principle which governed the remark of the young woman who thought a cash register would serve her ambitions better than a mere man, "because it always had money and was willing to give it up," they, too, might better realize the feminine illusions built about them.

It's a grave problem, this matrimonial one, isn't it? Altogether very much like the moon, because we can never see but one side of it—the side of the sex we happen to belong to, of course.

Men and women have discussed it and written about it for hundreds of years, and the only conclusions that are ever reached about it happen in vaudeville or in Bernard Shaw. I recall some that happened in vaudeville a year or so ago, very much at my expense.

A fairly well-known monologist had written me from Boston, asking me to write a monologue on "Marriage" for him. I undertook the task with the gravest misgivings, and when we met he very frankly admitted that the few sheets I submitted to him would not do at all.

"You don't hit 'em hard enough," he explained. "I thought, maybe, you wouldn't get the gait right away, so I wrote a few samples to show you what I want. Now, listen to this!"

He drew a MS. from his pocket, and the fatuous smile of authorship irradiated his sharp features as he proceeded:

"'I was reading the other day in the 'Scientific America' that Thomas A. Edison had just patented a process for making men out of metal. Think of it, girls, you'd all be sure of marrying a man of mettle. (Long pause by the author, watching the point sink into my soul.) You could go down any morning to any of the big department stores and get a husband at bargain rates. Maybe you'd want an iron husband—think of what a strong arm he'd have! Or a tin husband—my, but he'd have dough! 'Now, that's the kind of ideas on marriage you ought to have!'" he concluded.

I suppose they were, for they were sound and safe and endeared to the public heart by familiar centuries of repetition. So is the lay figure jest as applied to wives, the cash register simile concerning husbands.

Of course, the best thing that can happen to any of us lay figures or cash registers is not to think at all. But the next best undoubtedly is to think as everybody thought that went before us.

An Oriental Brewery Trust.

From Everybody's Magazine for July.

There is a Brewery Trust in Japan. Once Japan imported all the beer she consumed. After a time she learned how to make her own beer, and at several places breweries were established with Japanese capital. These for a time competed—with the usual result. In 1904 the Government itself conceived, planned, initiated and organized the Brewery Trust of Japan, and now directs the trust's operations. Under Government direction the trust has thrived amazingly, and, while stupid competition has been eliminated, no one has been injured, no one has been garroted or robbed. Meanwhile under Government control the amount of beer exported from Japan in 1905 was double the amount exported in 1904, and the amount exported in 1903 will probably double the amount exported in 1905, for, under Government direction, Japan is beginning to seize the beer trade in China and Korea.

Missouri's Great Quake.

M. L. Fuller in the Popular Science Monthly.

Probably few people are aware that the greatest earthquake our country has experienced since its settlement was not the destructive shock at Charleston in 1886, or even the recent terrifying manifestation at San Francisco, but was, on the contrary, the now almost forgotten earthquake of New Madrid, the first tremors of which took place on the 16th of December, 1811. Strange is that trait of human nature by which even the most appalling of nature's manifestations slip rapidly from the memory, so that only a hundred years later little but tradition remains of the earthquake which changed the configuration of extensive areas of the Mississippi Valley, raising some portions, depressing others, shifting the course of streams, and draining old swamps at one point and forming new lakes at others. All this and more, however, took place during the successive vibrations which shook the New Madrid region almost continuously for a period of many months in 1811 and 1812.

HUMOR FROM FRANCE

What Red Tape Leads To.

Clerk (at poor relief office to applicant): Are you applying for relief?

Applicant (in rags and looking famished): Yes.

Clerk: Where do you live?

Applicant gives an address.

Clerk: Well, we shall inquire into your case and the result will be made known to you as son as possible. By the way, have you a telephone?—Bon Vivant.

Proof of Civilization.

How Is It to Be Done?

Patient: Doctor, I feel a little pain between the shoulder blades and I'm anxious to know what it is.

Doctor (after examination): Nothing serious. Just a boil coming on your back. You'd better keep your eye on it all the same.—Pele Mele.

Both Waiting.

Barrister (to Judge): I beg your pardon, but I must interrupt my speech. I notice that one of your associates is asleep and I shall wait for him to wake before proceeding with my pleading."

Judge: I am afraid that would create a difficult situation, for my strong belief is that my associate is waiting for you to finish your speech before waking.—Pele Mele.

Marvels of Science.

At the horticultural show, where lady desires to see the latest novelty. An exhibitor immediately speaks. "Here you are, madam, the latest novelty. A cross between the iris and the turnip, with the scent of a Camembert cheese, exceedingly difficult to produce."—Vie Parisienne.

Another False Proverb.

Elector (who has been indulging in free drinks): My candidate's the man. Look at his opponent. He says 'Union is Strength." Now that's a lie. You put water with your whisky and see if it makes strength.—Bon Vivant.

Modern Collector.

Automobilist (to friend): This is my museum. I have a magnificent collection of everything I've run over. This is only one of the rooms. Every time I buy a machine of a new make I start a special room in my museum for it.—Pele Mele.

Important Thing First.

Mistress (to maid): Marie, when you have finished washing Toto you must take care to dry him well. Then you'll brush him down properly and wrap him up until he's quite warm. Then you may go and see why baby is crying so.—Bon Vivant.

Safe Anyhow.

The story is told in Boston of a discussion among the judges as to the choice of a stenographer. Most of them preferred a woman, but one objected.

"Now, why don't you want one?" asked Judge S. "You know they are generally more to be depended on than men."

"That may be all so," replied Judge B.; "but you know that in our cases we often have to be here very late. There are always watchmen and other guards in the corridors. Do you think it would be prudent to have a woman staying with any of the judges as late as might be necessary for a stenographer?"

"Why, what are you afraid of? Couldn't you holler," questioned Judge S.—July Lippincott's Magazine.

HERE IS A PROBLEM FOR EVERY GIRL TO SOLVE FOR HERSELF

If your father were in the power of an unscrupulous man, and that man were in love with you; and, in spite of yourself, you feared you might perhaps be more than half in love with him; and, if the man made your acceptance of his hand in marriage the price of your father's safety—would you marry him or would you not?

If, moreover, something within you alternately bade you yield to your infatuation for him, while something equally strong warned you to beware of him as untrustworthy, to which inner voice would you listen?

Added to this, suppose another man—a clean, manly, plucky young fellow who honestly loved—appeared on the scene just then, to complicate matters, could you force yourself to care for him?

Those are the various phases of a problem that might well puzzle any girl. Imagine then how they affected the original girl to whom they presented themselves, not as theories, but as very real facts!

That girl was the heroine of Max Pemberton's newest and most absorbingly interesting novel which will appear for the first time in this paper. And the foregoing heart-problem will be enthrallingly dealt with in "The Lady Evelyn."

CLIQUES RESPONSIBLE FOR BAD PLAYING---

—MANAGER McCLOSKEY.

Cardinal Commander Makes Flat-Footed Statement That Indifference and Carelessness of Certain of His Players Is Alone Responsible for the Poor Showing Made by His Team on Recent Eastern Trip.

Manager John J. McCloskey said Thursday noon that certain members of the Cardinal baseball club were not playing baseball to the limit of their abilities or to the best advantage of the team.

He refused to mention names, but it is understood that Jack Taylor, the star pitcher, and Mike Grady, the best catcher, are the men whom McCloskey has in mind.

The big manager was fighting mad when he arrived in St. Louis Thursday mornnig from his home at Louisville, whence he went from Chicago. In response to a query about the alleged hard luck which pursued the Cardinals in the East, McCloskey said:

"Hard luck nothing. Hard luck has got nothing to do with it. For some years there has been a clique in this club comprised of men whose success leads them to fancy that they can own the earth and who seem determined to run the club to suit themselves. The men did not play ball on this trip. They did not give their employers or their club half of the service they should. Every club has the same chance to win and hard luck cuts no figure."

"What are you going to do about it?" asked the reporter.

"This," said McCloskey with decision, "I will break up this clique right now or it will break me. I am going to set the facts I possess before Mr. Robison. He has got to do one thing or the other. It is me or them. I heard they ruined Nichols and Burke. That may be. McCloskey is a different party."

No amount of urging would persuade Mr. McCloskey to mention names, but from his friends it was hinted that Taylor and Grady were the leaders—the men meant.

It will be remembered that Taylor did receive leave of absence to visit his home at Nelsonville, O., early in June. He overstayed his leave and failed to report for important games at Pittsburg. This angered McCloskey very much at the time. Friends of the club were much put out by Taylor's apparent indifference to its welfare.

Grady and McCloskey had trouble over the catcher's failure to report for morning practice early in the season.

Taylor and Grady were supposed to be members of an alleged clique which undid Nichols and later Burke.

CLARKE SAYS HERMANN BET AGAINST PIRATES

Pittsburg Manager Accuses Cincinnati Club Owner of Discriminating Against His Club in Phelps Matter to Save a $12,000 Bet Made Against the Smoky City Team.

Fred Clarke, the manager of the Pirates, is not pleased by the action of Garry Hermann, president of the Cincinnati baseball club, and chairman of the National Commission in awarding Catcher Phelps, late of Cincinnati, to the Boston Americans.

According to Clarke, Hermann used means in the conveyance of Phillips to Taylor's team that were not altogether fair to Pittsburg.

Clarke gave the following version of the deal to a reporter of the Post-Dispatch at the Planters Hotel Thursday morning.

"On June 16 Cincinnati released Phelps. The usual waiver of claims was asked for from all the National League clubs and obtained. When Phelps learned of this he went to Hermann and asked him for his releases. Hermann told him it was all right, that he was released. Phelps was not satisfied with his release verbally and asked for a written notice of release. The former Cincinnati catcher got this notice. As soon as Hermann dictated the release of Phelps the catcher wired us terms. We accepted. Then Hermann recalled his written and verbal releases and awarded the catcher, whom we had signed in good faith, and who was with our club and for the sum of $1500 awarded the player to Boston. Half of this money goes to Phelps. As soon as Hermann released Phelps his control of that player's services ceased. Neither Hermann or any other man had a right to dispose of Phelps' service. We dickered with Phelps, secured him, and byal 1 baseball equity he is ours. Yet this fat man Hermann takes it upon himself to award the catcher to Boston and I guess it wall have to stand.

"I asked Hermann for an explanation of his action in his office at Cincinnati Wednesday. He tried to put me off with sauve nothings. I was not in Hermann's office to be flattered or cajoled. I told Herman so. I asked him if he did not respect his written release. Hermann evaded this question. Then I informed him that if he could not respect his word that his written bond of release should be sufficient. But on the top of this Hermann has set aside all the precedents of baseball and awarded Phelps to Boston. This is an injustice. I told Hermann a few things. They would nott look good in any print. Mr. Hermann informed me that this matter was merely a difference of opinion.

"Hermann is a huge joke. But his action is not without motive. He gave Phelps to Boston to cripple us and save himself $12,000. He stands to lose that amount in case Pittsburg wins the pennant. He figures that without Phelps our chances will be lessened. That $12,000 which Hermann has bet against us is the motive back of the awarding of Phelps to Boston. If that's justice to a ballplayer, or to the Pittsburg club I am unable to interpret the meaning of the word."

THE TIDD CASE.

Fnal Disposition When Depositions Have Been Taken.

Provided that a sufficient number of replies have been received to letters sent out by Wallace McCargo and Charles F. Stephens, the committee appointed by the W. A. A. U. to consider the Tidd case, a meeting will be held at the Missouri Atheltic Club, Thursday night to discuss the case.

At the last session Bassett and some teammates of Tidd's and Clerk of the Course Sard Smith were the only witnesses present to testify in the case.

McCargo and Stephens have made especial efforts to obtain the testimony of Martin Delaney, S. C. Douglas, Tom Aitken, Dan Dillon, Keenan Shock and L. E. Cornelius and these gentlemen, who are cognizant of the facts in the case, are expected to be represented at the meeting in person or by affidavits.

KILLED IN POVERTY.

In Week S. J. Wilkinson Would Have Inherited $100,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 28.—Within less than a week S. J. Wilkinson would have come into possession of $100,000, the one-sixth interest in the estate of his father, James Wilkinson of Dallas, Tex. Today he was killed by a train on the Pennsylvania Railroad at Homewood crossing, this city.

All his life Wilkinson had known poverty. The father separated from the family many years ago. As soon as he was old enough Wilkinson, who was 31 years old, began driving cattle for a living. He has worked at that ever since, and was a familiar figure about the stockyards. His services were always in demand by butchers, for he was a good driver.

Hartzell evidently mistook T. Jones for Machnow, the Russian giant, when he tossed that wild waft over to catch Donahue in the last inning.

New York has five of the ten leading base runners of the National League. They are Devlin, Donlin, Browne, Gilbert and Mertes.

COLLEGIANS DEFY THE PROFESSIONALS

Coach Liston Organizes a Team of Student Players to Meet Boys From the Lots.

A game that will be a test of the relative abilities of professional and college baseball men has been arranged for the first Saturday in September between a picked team of collegians from the various schools of St. Louis and the leading teams of the Trolley League.

The collegians are being organized under the direction of Coach Liston of Smith Academy and already there is talk of the sums of money that are to be wagered on the result.

The receipts accruing to the college players are to be equally divided among the athletic associations of the schools the various players represent in order not to jeopardize the amateur standing of any of the college players.

Liston is confident that the team he has picked can beat any team in the Trolley League. The players he has selected are the following: Fullerton of Smith Academy, c; Lonnie Fitzporter, St. Louis University, p; Thomas, Washington University, 1b; Mansur, Smith Academy, 2b; Frankie Howe, St. Louis University, ss; Schuetz, Concordia Seminary, 3b; Robinson, Washington University, lf; Player, Central High School, rf; Campbell, Smith Academy, cf.

Liston is the best informed man on college baseball in the city, and he has undoubtedly chosen an excellent team. Schuetz has played in the Trolley League under the name of Palmer and Fitzporter is considered in the first flight of local pitchers. Campbell has been offered a position with the White Seals, but refused it and Thomas is one of the hardest hitters ever seen on a local field.

M. A. C. SWIMMERS TO PADDLE AT CHAUTAUQUA

The next endurance swim of the Missouri Athletic Club's swimming squad will be held two weeks from Sunday, when the paddlers will engage in a seven-mile swim from Chautauqua to Clifton Terrace.

Weekly practice will be held at the M. A. C. swimming pool Thursday night when several prospective members of the pool team will be tried out.

ROWING CLUBS SELECT CREWS

Western and St. Louis Organizations Name Men for the Stifel Cup.

The St. Louis and Western Rowing clubs have announced the make-up of their crews for the Otto Stifel cup race which will be held on the Mississippi, July 4. The start will be made above the Merchants Bridge and the finishing point will be opposite the Mound City Rowing Club's quarters at the foot of Madison street.

Draw for water will be held at 2 o'clock on the day of the race, a number for each crew being thrown into a hat and the location of each crew determined by lot.

The Westerns will enter their junior barge crew, which has been practicing faithfully for the event for the last two weeks. It will be made up as follows: Weismueller, No. 1; John Sauter, No. 2; Dolph Smith, No. 3; Herman Burke, No. 4; Dick Strathmer, No. 5; Al Boehr, stroke; Otto Becker, coxswain.

Sauter, who will be at No. 2, is the well-known local boxer who holds the Western A. A. U. heavyweight championship. This will be Sauter's first year in a racing boat.

The St. Louis Rowing Club will introduce its crack barge crew that won all the events held in the local harbor during 1903. Louis Joachim, a brother of Capt. Joachim of the Westerns, will be at bow; Bechano at No. 2; Pete Dilg, No. 3; Joe Dilg, No. 4; Langaheny, No. 5; Louis Grosjean, stroke; Charlie Blitt, coxswain.

The Mound Citys will not announce the personnel of the two crews that are to represent them in the race until Saturday.

STATE TENNIS TOURNEY SATURDAY

Annual Event for Championship of Missouri Will Begin on Triple A Courts.

The annual tennis tournament for the championship of Missouri will be held on the Triple A courts at Forest Park beginning June 30 and continuing for the following week.

The events will be men's singles and doubles. The winner of the singles will be called upon to play Mr. Ralph McKittrick, the present champion, in a challenge round.

The winners of the doubles will meet Joe Wear and Ralph McKittrick, holders of the title in this class. The trophies in the event, sterling silver cups, will become the property in the respective events of anyone who may win the championship three times, not necessarily in succession. In addition to these, suitable first and second prizes will be awarded in both men's singles and doubles.

All matches will be best two out of three sets, except in the final and championship rounds, which will be best three out of five sets.

The tournament will be open to all players, resident of Missouri or elsewhere, the right being reserved to pass on the eligibility of all entrants.

The draw for pairings will be held Friday evening and a schedule made out for the convenience of competitors, naming the courts they will have to use for the various matches.

Failure to appear for a match at the scheduled time will cause its forfeiture.

Burch, the Cardinals' new meadow man is a very likely looking lad. Some of the Cardinals have it that he is as fast as Niles. Robert Lee Hedges doubts very much the accuracy of their observations, and while it is far from the president of the Browns to do so imprudent a thing as making a bet, he knows a friend of a friend's friend of his who will wager $500 that Niles can beat Burch in a hundred yards straightaway.

Powell will try and apply the brakes to the Ravens' losing streak. The big fellow will probably pitch in Detroit Thursday afternoon.

YALE FRESHMEN AND FOUR'S BEAT HARVARD

Elis Flash Past the Finish Line at New London Ahead of the Crimson in Two Events—Big Race Will Be Started at 5 P. M.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 28.—Yale inaugurated the annual collegiate regatta today by winning the freshman race from the Crimson representatives. A few minutes later the Elis annexed the event for 'varsity fours. The big race will be started this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Race day on the Thames dawned with a promise of wind, and water conditions that would be well-night perfect for the three events which will make up the twenty-eighth annual regatta between Yale and Harvard.

A cool westerly breeze was blowing, but it was not strong enough to ripple the river's surface. Yale has won each year since 1899 and her victories are 18 to Harvard's 7 in the 25 dual regattas, Cornell having won twice in triangular meets.

The crowd of race observers poured into the city on morning trains. Thousands also came by trolley and hundreds over the water and there were automobile parties without number. The first race of the day, the freshmen eights was scheduled to start at 10 o'clock from the draw bridge.

From dawn until that hour scores of yachts moved up from harbor anchorages to positions in the upper river, forming a long lane of craft through which the rival crews were to race. There was a big fleet of sailing and steam yachts last year but it was small in comparison with the flotilla which was in motion today.

Color and life were given to the marine picture by the fluttering of the flags and bunting with which the craft had been dressed, everything aloft floating briskly in the morning breeze.

The observation trains for the morning races ran up both banks of the river and were well filled.

An hour before the time for the first race word was received from up-river that everything was in readiness for the day's events.

The referee was Guy Richards, Columbia '87.

The freshman race, two miles, started at 10:33. Yale on the start caught the water first and immediately secured a slight advantage over Harvard. They cut out a stroke of about 36 to the minute, but soon lowered it somewhat. Their advantage over Harvard was very slight, the latter crew settling down to a steady stroke almost immediately after starting. Approaching the half-mile flag there was no change in the positions of the crews.

At the half mile Harvard had regained the short distance lost at the start and seemed to be slowly creeping along, her bow showing just a little ahead of Yale. Both crews were rowing smoothly and steadily.

It was nip and tuck as the eights approached the mile mark and the advantage, if any, seemed slightly in favor of Harvard. Nearing the mile mark Yale was leading by a half length. The mile was rowed in 5:06.

At the mile and a quarter Harvard had a slight advantage. At a mile and a half Yale led by a few feet. Time for the mile and a half, 7:24.

Yale was pulling 34, Harvard 35. Leaving the mile and a half Harvard caught up and was leading.

Yale, however, regained the lead and won the race.

Blues Win Four.

The start of the four-oared race, over a distance of two miles up-stream, was made at 11:13. Harvard caught the water first, but Yale spurted into the lead. Harvard was leading by a quarter of a length at the quarter mile, but Yale spurted and brought the boats on even terms. Harvard was rowing 38, Yale 36 to the minute.

As the half-mile was rowed in 2:32. Yale led at the half by half a length, which soon was increased to nearly a length. Both crews were rowing smoothly, but Yale with greater ease. Yale hugged the shore and increased the lead on her way to the finish and, barring accident looked to be the winner.

The mile was made in 5m. 31s. Yale was leading by two lengths and a half.

At the mile and a half Yale led by about four lengths.

Yale won by eight lengths. Yale's time was 11:46 3-5; Harvard, 12:14.

Athletic Atoms

President Joseph H. Guyett of the M. A. C. invited the directors of the club to select two teams from among their members to meet on the wooden diamond for the championship of the executive offices.

Former President William R. Day has promised to read the communication before the next meeting of the board and as President Guyett has heartily indorsed Trueman's project for the game it is very probable that it will be arranged.

POLITICS HURT SPORT.

The political diversions between Hamilton A. Forman, president of the City Council, are delaying consummation of the organization of the Equestrian Club of St. Louis.

Mr. Forman is president of the club and Mr. A. A. Busch one of its members. They have been so busy trying to cement their political differences that Mr. Forman has been unable to call a meeting of the organization which was to receive the report of the committee appointed to decide upon a name for the club and to report on the matter of permanent quarters.

Probably no city in the world is better equipped for the enjoyment of horse back riding than St. Louis, and horseback riding has had an access of popularity of late that bespeaks its popularity among the gentlemen and ladies of the city.

Prospects for the organization are unusually bright says Mr. Henry R. Weisels, one of the initiators of the enterprise, and he predicts that a meeting will be called within the next week.

GOSSIP of the Golfers

The pairings of the St. Louisans who start play Thursday for the National Open Championship at Chicago are as follows: W. Duffy, Country Club, and D. McIntosh, Chicago; D. K. White, Algonquin, and W. Marshall, Chicago; W. S. Dow, Normandie, and J. Simpson, Chicago; R. Foulis, Glen Echo, and Will Smith, Mexico.

Alex. Smith, the new Western champion, is paired with A. Campbell, Boston, and Willie Anderson will meet F. Brand, Pittsburg.

Rev. Courtney Jones plays back handed, that is, stands with his left foot forward, yet has his left hand lowest on the club grip. It is a strange method of hitting. When baseball first was practiced many men hit that way, Mr. Dan Breck also uses the back hand smash with some success.

A. A. U. MEN MEET.

The oft-postponed regular monthly meeting of the Board of Governors of the Western A. A. U., will be held at the Missouri Athletic Club Friday night. The meeting has been called for the last three Friday nights, but was postponed each time until the following Friday because a quorum was not present.

Important business will be considered by the board, and an effort will be made toward the Western A. A. U. championships to some club, organization or individual capable of handling it, in a manner commensurate with the attraction.

St. Louis, Louisville, Kansas City, Denver and Texas clubs are entitled to bid for the right to hold the meet.

HAPLESS HARTZELL TOSSED IT OFF

Atrocious Fielding by Third-Baseman Gave Chicago Last Game of Series.

Failure of the Ravens to hit the weird wafts of Wizard White when hits meant runs, and atrocious fielding by Hartzell, cost the McAleerites Wednesday's game with Chicago 3 to 0.

In five of the nine innings the Ravens got men as far as second or third base, yet Stone, Spencer and others could not materialize with the hit necessary to score.

Prospects for scoring looked good in the opening inning. Miles opened with an infield tap, which he beat to first base. Then T. Jones sacrificed him to second. Stone followed with a sharp single to left. A hit of any kind or even a long fly would have scored Niles. But the wizard White started his weird wafts and Hemphill struck out. Then White showed that he had something under his cap besides hair by walking Wallace, filling the bases. The easy-going Spencer closed what appeared to be a propitious inning by forcing Wallace at second.

After Hemphill had gone out to Hahn in the fourth Wallace and Koehler unleashed singles. Koehler stole second. Up to Hartzell, he responded by striking out when anything in the way of a hit would have gladdened the heart of the hard-worked Howell and the patient public. Then Spencer again retired the side with an easy tap to Donahue.

Two gone in the fifth, Jones doubled. Then Hemphill lifted to Fielder Jones. Nothing doing.

The Ravens showed senility of a pronounced type at the bat in the sixth inning. Hemphill opened with a single. Isbell erred on Wallace's tap. Koehler lifted a twisting fly back of short. Davis was on the job and gathered the ball to his bosom. Then Hartzell and Spencer went out to Donahue.

Stone opened with a single in the eighth, but Comrades Hemphill, Wallace and Koehler were easy victims of the hypnotic White.

For seven innings Howell held the Sox hitless. In the eighth Tannehill ripped one at Hartzell. Gentle Roy played finger billiards with the ball and Tannehill went to first base. Then White tapped to Hartzell. He started to throw to second, then switched to first. White beat the ball there. Hartzell followed this misplay by making a bad throw when Hahn attempted to sacrifice. Tannehill scored on the error. Jones followed with a hit to right field, scoring White. Isbell and Davis were easy outs.

Hartzell had the rattles proper in the ninth, and after making a neat pickup of Donahue's rap he threw the ball to the pavilion. O'Neill sacrificed. Koehler stopped Sullivan's rap over second, made a wide throw and Donahue scored. Tannehill singled to left. Sullivan and Tannehill attempted to advance on a passed ball. Sullivan was out at third base. White ended the inning, Spencer to Jones.

SHOULD A. A. UNION GOVERN BASEBALL?

Some Difference of Opinion Appears to Exist Upon This Subject.

Some difference of opinion exists among officers of the Amateur Athletic Union over the interpretation of the law regulating amateur baseball adopted a few months ago by the Board of Governors.

Some of the members of the board do not believe that baseball can or should be included among those sports that are under the supervision of the A. A. U., while others, among them John J. O'Connor, president of the union, believes that amateur baseball can be controlled just as easily and successfully as socker football was last year.

Charlie Stevens, a member of the Board of Registration, is one of the main dissenters to the opinion, and a meeting will be called within the next few weeks to arbitrarily fix the status of amateur baseball players.

President O'Connor said Tuesday that he was in favor of calling a conference to adjudicate and decide just what an amateur baseball player was.

"There is considerable conflict of opinion as to just what is an amateur player and what he may do to retain his standing as a member of the A. A. U.," said Mr. O'Connor.

"Take the Triple A League for instance. There is Mr. Connett, a worthy young gentleman of irreproachable character. If I mistake not he is a member of the Triple A nine. Mr. Connett has played professional ball with Trolley League teams. Yet I do not mind saying that if Mr. Connett would apply for reinstatement that he would be granted an A. A. U. card."

Then there is Bascomb of the same team, who has been playing with the Washingtons. I doubt if this young man has ever made enough to buy himself a pocket handkerchief by his ballplaying.

"It seems to me that what the A. A. U. should do is to adopt a rule that so long as a baseball team is run under the direction of a manager who receives and disburses all the money and does not pay the players a direct salary, that the members of that team are amateurs whether they play for money or not. Take the football situation last year. The A. O. H. had a team, the outfitting of which cost about $150. Admission was charged to ball grounds to see the team play. At the end of the year their share of the receipts was just $34, leaving a deficit of $116, to be met by the organization.

The A. A. U. can control baseball just as easily as it did football and as it does boxing, the Western branch of the A. A. U. being the only member of the parent body that conducts these two sports in a satisfactory manner."

PADDLE AND SADDLE CANOE IN REGATTA

Tilting Should Present the Most Exciting Feature of Meramec Event.

The tilting contest between canoes with two occupants is regarded the feature event of the inaugural regatta of the Paddle and Saddle Club on the Meramec River, opposite Valley Park, next Saturday afternoon.

The participants in this event are required to be expert paddlers and aquatic artists, who are thoroughly familiar with the vagaries of the Meramec River and the limitations of canoes. One man stands upright in the boat with the paddle in his hand and tries to unbalance or push out his opponent, who, if he is a clever equilibrist, fences or wards off the blows, jabs and thrusts of his adversary. Tilting of the canoe by upsetting it with an oar is not allowed, a point only being scored when an opponent is thrust out of his boat.

The contestant paddling and rowing the boat can help his mate considerably by ingenious guiding and quick reversals and maneuvering on his part often wins one of these contests.

Five other events are on the program, including a race for mixed doubles between some of the best known young people in the city.

Starter Cabanne will start the first race at 3 p. m.

Following are the entries:

Open race, one mile—L. G. Warren, F. H. Brown, Mitchell Craft, M. Stephens, Sam Goddard and Dave Stephens, E. P. Hall and Dan Frost, Phil Smith and Sam Stein, Gwynne Evans and Frank Hall.

BASEBALL BABBLE

McFarland will be here in a Pirate uniform Thursday. They say the new clothes are becoming to the haberdasher.

Capt. Shannon of the Cardinals believes that Pittsburg will fly the National League pennant this season. "You see," said Shannon, "the Pirates have at last gotten a first baseman who is a capable, competent man. Nealon is one of the grandest fielders and most natural hitters in the business. He has improved the Pittsburg team 20 per cent. First base was always the weak link in the Pittsburg chain. Now they have a man that is equal in all respects to any occasion. Some people think Chicago will win that pennant. I don't. Here's my reasons. Take Chicago. They have Chance, Schulte, Sheckard, Steinfeldt and Kling, all good hitters. But that lets them out. Now, take Pittsburg. They have three outfielders who are .300 hitters, and thel have three infielders who are .300 hitters. Then you can count Peitz a .300 hitter when he is in the game, for the old boy can surely welt the ball. That gives them seven men who can hit .300. Pittsburg is liable to break up any game in one inning. Those mighty stickers impress pitchers with the fear of the Lord. They are good on the paths too. Clarke, Beaumont, Ganley, Wagner and Nealon are all good base runners, as is Tommy Leach. I'll take Pittsburg to win the pennant," concluded Shannon as he joined Mrs. Shannon in the grand stand.

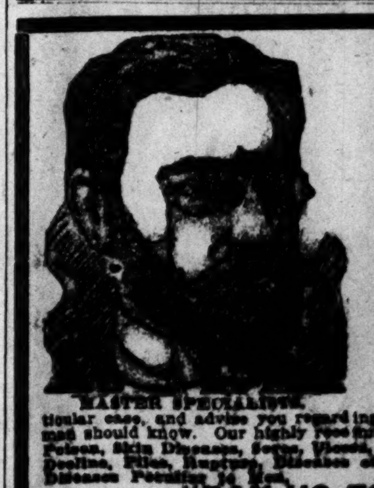

Nearly all of the Cardinals are of opinion that New York has no chance to win this year's pennant in the National League. They declare that Mathewson is very weak and will not be himself again this season. Donlin's absence they also declare to be a big handicap to the team. Donlin's fearful hitting is badly missed by the Giants. He will hardly be back in the game before the middle of July.

Harry Arndt, who has been ailing with malaria, is recovering his strength and will be back in the game in a few days.

Looks as though any time a home run is needed in Philadelphia, the spectators have merely to ask Capt. Davis to favor. He generally aims to please.

Murray, the catcher, is a likely looking lad. He is promising, too. 'Tis to be hoped that some of his performances will be equal to the promises of his friends.

Howell remains behind. He will pitch Sunday's game against Detroit.

SHORTS COVERING CAUSES GOOD RALLY

Selling Ceases After an Early Drive by the Bear Interests.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 28.—The opening on Wall street this morning was feverish in the extreme and prices on all the active securities were lower. Trading was on a large scale and in some issues a heavy pressure of offerings was noted.

The early market for Americans in London was slightly improved with the exception of Anaconda Copper, which recorded a decline of 1¾ points. The general advances were not well held, however, and later cables showed that market reactionary.

The feeling in financial circles is still depressed, as it is known that the selling of the last few days has been of an excellent character and has eminated largely from Standard Oil sources.

This is taken to indicate that the attack on this corporation by the Government caught them well prepared and out of securities, and that they are now facilitating the downward movement in prices in retaliation for the recent Federal action.

The Day's Market.

Liquidation on a very heavy scale broke out after the market was well under way, and for a time all efforts to check the decline met with small success. Prices ran off rapidly 1 to 3 points in the high-priced issues and in some of the specialties and highly manipulated securities the losses extended further. U. S. Steel preferred came in for a severe drubbing and the weakness in this stock gave the bears encouragement, as recently all attacks against this issue have proved futile. Commission houses were selling on a heavy scale, but much of the selling came from unknown sources, and it was apparent that the banking interests were standing aside and letting the big bear party have a free rein. Boston houses were sellers after buying on the opening, and it was impossible to get a line on the actions of Lawson and his followers. Today was the day set aside by Lawson for his attack on the Amalgamated Copper Co. and was also the period mentioned by this operator for a panicky break in prices. This prediction of a steady decline and a bad spill was made some five weeks ago and, owing to the recent severe decline and the heavy selling of Amalgamated, has received a great deal of attention in financial and stock market circles. Shorts were covering contracts freely as the market neared the noon period and prices in nearly all cases had recovered their early losses and advanced sharply above yesterday's closing. The tone on the floor was improved and the professionals were favoring the advance. Money loaned on call at 3¾ to 4 per cent.

The Closing.

The reported engagement of $4,000,000 in gold for import put the shorts to flight after the noon period and prices moved up to the high point of the day on a heavy absorption. There was little, if any, improvement in the outside buying, however, and the demand came almost entirely from the extensive short interest. General news was not important and the traders were paying little attention to reports from the crop or industrial world. The recent decline has been so severe and apparently unwarranted by conditions in the country that the street is inclined to look on any attempted advance as purely artificial. Shorts were still good buyers as the market closed and last prices were well above yesterday's closing.

Local Money.

Messrs. George H. Burr & Co., commercial paper brokers, 31 Third National Bank Building, report local money:

Indorsed bills receivable, 4 to 6 months, 5 to 5¼ per cent; high-grade single-name paper, 4 to 6 months, 5¼ to 5½ per cent; other names not so well known, 5½ per cent; call money on good security, 5 to 5½ per cent; demand for money good. Bankers report business active.

THREE MILLION TO USE COTTON STALKS

New Industries to Be Started That Will Add Income to Planters.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 28.—The recent act of Congress which removes the internal revenue tax from denaturized alcohol has developed a new industry in the South and promises employment for millions of dollars of capital in this fertile field.

New York and Southern capitalists have just completed in Wall street the organization of a $15,000,000 company to manufacture denaturized alcohol from the fiber of the cotton stalk. Still more interesting is the renewed announcement that the company is in possession of a process for the manufacture of white paper from the same fiber.

The new company is to be known as the Cotton Stalks Products Co., and has been incorporated in Maine. Of its stock $3,000,000 is 7 per cent preferred and $12,000,000 common.

Harvie Jordan, president of the Southern Cotton Association, is president of the new company; S. F. B. Morse, vice-president, and Arthur F. Kales, secretary and treasurer. Among the directors are John P. Allison, Concord, Ga.; W. P. G. Harding, Birmingham; William H. Hassinger, Birmingham; William C. Sedden, Baltimore; William F. Andover, Montgomery, and John B. Walker, Sparta, Ga.

Day's News Is Confilcting and Price Range Is Irregular.

OTHER GRAINS QUIET

Prices on Corn and Oats Show Only Small Changes Today.

Wheat sold off in the late trading following a decline in the Chicago market and sellers had a small advantage on the day.

The early market showed considerable strength on the steady cables, more talk of rust in the spring wheat belt and firm cash prices. Freer offering by the Southwest and reports of the purchase of 40,000 bu of spring wheat in Southern Illinois counteracted the bullish influences.

Expert Jones' report estimating the winter wheat crop at 420,000,000 bu was also a depressing influence. The July report last year showed 418,000,000 bu. Final figures were 428,000,000 bu. This is larger than was generally looked for by the trade.

Liverpool showed a steady range of prices throughout and closed unchanged to ⅛d higher on wheat and ¼d lower on corn. Berlin prices closed ⅛c up and Budapest prices unchanged.

Minneapolis reported 188 cars, against 182 last week, 163 last year and 207 two years ago. Local receipts were light and the shipments only moderate.

Clearances of wheat and flour were 126,000 bu.

Corn showed a steady range in the early session, but sold off slightly when wheat showed signs of reacting.

The improved weather is operating in favor of the bears, but country acceptances are light and the cash market business continues large, at fancy prices. Clearances were 1000 bu.

Oats moved in sympathy with the other grains, but the undertone of the speculation in this grain continues firm at all times. The damage to the growing crop has already been such as to make the bulls very confident of their position, while the large domestic demand continues practically unabated in spite of the recent extreme rise in prices. Even the Price Current, which is always ultra conservative in its opinions, indicates that the crop will be decidedly short. Clearances were 165 bu.

Primary movement—Receipts: Wheat, 265,767 bu, against 237,003 bu last year; Corn, 672,885 bu, against 651,062 bu last year. Oats, 480,016 bu, against 304,186 bu last year.

Shipments—Wheat: 93,308 bu, against 226,000 bu last year; corn, 561,745 bu, against 741,000 bu last year; oats, 437,845 bu, against 626,000 bu last year.

St. Louis receipts and shipments—Receipts: Wheat, 11,722 bu; corn, 33,000 bu; oats, 43,200 bu.

Shipments—Wheat, 29,075 bu; corn, 53,895 bu; oats, 43,350 bu.

FLOUR—Receipts, 4625 sacks; shipments, 6480 sacks. Quote soft red winter, patents, $4.35@4.50; straights, $4.10@4.30; extra fancy, $3.75@3.90. Foregoing in wood, low to medium grades; $2.40@3 in jute. Hard in jute sacks, patents, $3.65@3.85; straights, $3.45@3.50; clear, $2.75@3; low grade, $2.20@2.50.

Death of Nicholas Rekinger.

Nicholas Rekinger, a pioneer shoe merchant of St. Louis, died at his home, 3227 Lucas avenue, Wednesday evening.

Mr. Rekinger was born in Germany in 1825, and came to St. Louis when quite young. He engaged in the shoe business, until 1883, when he retired, devoting his time to his property interests.

He was married in 1856 to Miss Anna Tobin. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on April 15, last.

Mr. Rekinger had been ailing for several months, before that event, but kept up bravely after expressing the wish that he might live to celebrate that happy event.

On April 16, the day after his dearest wish had been granted, he took to his bed, and has grown steadily worse until last evening when he fell into that beautiful peaceful sleep that comes after a well-spent life, surrounded by all the members of his family. He leaves besides his widow, Mrs. Anna Tobin Rekinger, three children, Frank F. Rekinger, Miss Lillie Rekinger of St. Louis, Mrs. Anna J. Abel of Dallas, Tex., also two grand children, J. Gaylord Sohns of St. Louis and Mrs. Anna Marie Tobin of El Paso, Tex.

His funeral will be held from the residence Friday morning, at 9 o'clock and to St. Alphonsus Church, with solemn high mass. Thence to Calvary Cemetery.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of Frank J. Tice, who departed this life June 28, 1905.

With earth thou has been discontent,
When thou so soon away has went,
And left us, darling, to lament
Thy loss, our only boy.

LOVING PARENTS AND SISTER.

Anniversary Mass.

BUSCH CAN SEE NO NEED FOR INQUIRY

Promoter of Manufacturers' Railway Bill Replies to Mr. Forman.

"FRIENDS" IN COUNCIL

Brewer Says There Are No Members There Who Will Do His Bidding.

President Forman of the City Council refused Thursday to discuss the statement given out by August A. Busch concerning President Forman's announcement that he intended to have a Council committee appointed to investigate the passage of the Manufacturers' Railway (Busch line) bill in the City Council last week.

The announcement of President Forman concerning an investigating committee in the Council was published Wednesday afternoon in an open letter to Mr. Busch. President Forman said he would take steps at Friday's session of the Council looking to the appointment of the committee. In the letter Mr. Forman also asked Mr. Busch for his assistance in getting his "friends" in the Council to support the resolution and to help along the investigation.

Mr. Busch sent the following reply to Mr. Forman:

June 27, 1906.—Hon. H. A. Forman, city: Dear sir—I have yours of this date. I do not feel that anything has been said or done that makes it incumbent on me to call for an investigation. Neither am I the adviser of others whom you may or may not have in mind. It is still my opinion that if you have information of importance, you ought to give it to the public. But if you propose to start on an investigation without more to base it upon, that is, of course, your privilege, always bearing in mind that both of us are responsible to the public for what we say and do.

Following your example, I shall give a copy of this to the papers. Respectfully yours, AUG. A. BUSCH.

Willing to Have Inquiry.

In a statement to the press Mr. Busch says that he does not think an investigating committee necessary. He says that if Mr. Forman knows anything he thinks he should come out and tell it without going to the trouble of having a committee appointed to take up an investigation.

Mr. Busch also says that he has nothing to do with the Council, and that, consequently, it is for Mr. Forman to decide what should be done in the matter. The statement further says that he will not object to an investigation by a committee.

Mr. Busch also takes up the reference made by Mr. Forman to his (Busch's) "friends" in the Council.

"I have no 'friends' in the Council to whom I can give orders, or who will vote as I say," he explains. "I never at any time requested a single member of the Council to vote for the Manufacturers' Railway bill."

Cramer and Linde, two members of the faction to which President Forman referred as the "combine," say they will welcome the investigation. In fact, there seems to be no opposition at all to an inquiry.

HE HAS DIVORCE, WIFE SUES HIM

Resident of St. Louis County Married Again After Getting Decree.

Albert A. Lindsley, employed in the auditor's office of the Frisco Railroad in St. Louis, was surprised when he was notified that a suit for maintenance had been instituted in Buffalo, N. Y., against him by his first wife, from whom he says he obtained a divorce last November in Clayton.

Since his divorce Lindsley married Miss Eloise Arndt, and they live at 731 Lennyferry road in St. Louis County.

"I was married to my first wife 18 years ago in Buffalo," said Mr. Lindsley. "Ten years ago we separated. Five years ago I came to St. Louis and have lived here ever since.

"I applied to the Circuit Court at Clayton for a divorce, and the decree was granted last November. Shortly after that I married my present wife, and we have since lived in the county.

"I alleged general indignities in my petition for divorce. I did not apply for the divorce in New York, though I did not know my wife was subject to epilepsy when I married her, and could have alleged this.

"The case is in the hands of my attorneys in Buffalo, and I do not know any more about it than I have said. The rulings of the Supreme Court of the United States relative to divorces granted when both parties are not under the same jurisdiction may have some bearing on the case, but I know nothing of this."

Diesel for resident physician, and Miss Sheckelford of the Christian Hospital will send four trained nurses the first week of the encampment. The outings will be for one week. The Suburban Railway has placed special cars at the disposal of the Salvation Army for the transportation of guests to and from the city.

The services will open by a fellowship social in the chapel, with Dr. Eversden rendering selections on the organ. George H. Morgan will speak on "Congregationalism in St. Louis." He will be followed by L. B. Ripley, who will have for his subject "Reminiscences of Compton Hill's First Days." Oscar L. Whitelaw will then extend greetings to the congregation from the City Missionary Society.

American's Visitor in Disgrace.

The Earl of Melbourne, who recently visited America on a big game hunt, is the central figure in one of the most shocking scandals of the century. The details, which have been hitherto hushed up, will be given in full by the next Sunday Post-Dispatch in the first installment of "The Lady Evelyn," Max Pemberton's masterpiece, which will appear serially and exclusively in this paper.

OIL SOUGHT ON FRANCIS PROPERTY

Former Governor's Holdings Believed to Be One of Profitable Fields.

DISTRICT IS SEARCHED

Geologist of Government Survey Are Examining St. Louis Quadrangle.

Search for an underlying strata which will give forth oil, gas and coal in sufficient quantities to justify the working of what is known officially as the St. Louis Quadrangle is being made by a corps of government geological surveyors now prospecting in St. Louis and St. Louis County under the direction of Prof. Nevin M. Fenneman, field supervisor of the United States Geological Survey.

The Quadrangle, in parts of which oil has recently been discovered, embraces the Missouri and Illinois districts that would be bounded by a line drawn from Creve Coeur Lake to Valley Park, thence to Belleville, south from Belleville to Edwardsville and back to Creve Coeur Lake from a point not far south of Edwardsville.

Prof. Fenneman and two assistants are at work on the territory named and a full report of personal observations and economic inferences will be tendered at Washington when the surveys are finished. The work of surveying and inspection will continue through the summer, and the report will probably be submitted late in September or early in October.

At more than half a dozen places within the district oil has been recently discovered, and prospectors have leased over 30,000 acres of land on which they expect to drill for oil, coal and other mineral substances.

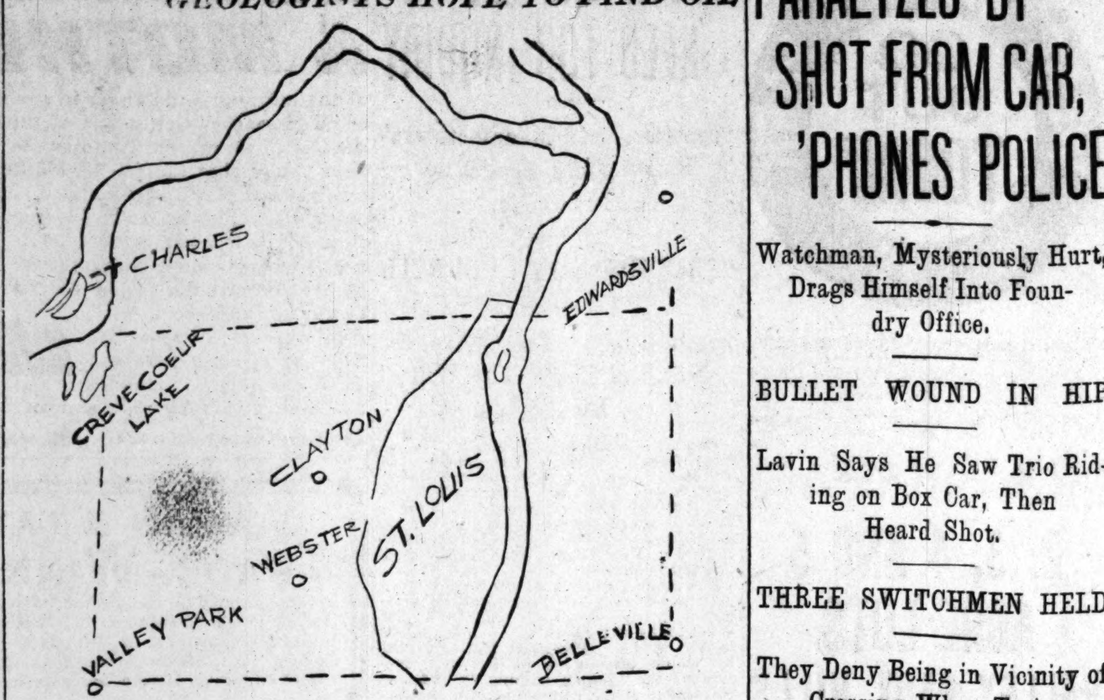

One of the recent discoveries of oil was made at Suburban Garden several days ago. J. S. Sublette, who has the oil finder with which the oil at Suburban Garden was located, will carry his work on through neary all of St. Louis County embraced in the quadrangle.

Ex-Gov. Francis, who owns a farm of several hundred acres in the southwestern part of St. Louis, bordering on River Des Peres, has thought for some time that there was oil under the land, but has never drilled to find out the quality or quantity of the oil.

Collins Thompson, Gov. Francis' secretary, said Thursday to a Post-Dispatch reporter in the absence of Gov. Francis, who is in New York City: "Gov. Francis has been told that there is oil and gas under a part of the land which he owns out near the southwestern city limits, but he has never investigated to see just how much or what kind of oil and gas it is.

"He put the matter temporarily aside in the rush of other matters, but will doubtless look into it soon."

ST. LOUIS QUADRANGLE, WHERE GEOLOGISTS HOPE TO FIND OIL

NEW SOCIETIES ARE ORGANIZED

Mrs. P. J. Toomey's Successful Work for the Queen's Daughters.

Mrs. P. T. Toomey, who has been visiting several Eastern cities in the interest of the extension of the Society of the Queen's Daughters, a Catholic charitable organization, has returned to her home at 4035 Morgan street. Mrs. Toomey, under appointment from Mayor Wells, also attended as a delegate the National Conference of Charities and Corrections at Philadelphia.

While there Mrs. Toomey obtained from Archbishop Ryan permission to establish the Queen's Daughters in Philadelphia. She met with similar success in Boston and other Eastern cities.

The society is now established in New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Virginia, Missouri, Iowa, Michigan, Colorado, Illinois and Texas. Archbishop Glennon of St. Louis is the spiritual director. Mrs. Toomey is enthusiastic over the results of her tour and says that in a few years the Queen's Daughters will be everywhere recognized as a national body of great influence in charity work.

"HEARST WOULD RULE POPULISTS"

National Committeemen Charge He Has a Representative Here.

> Platform Adopted by Populist Committee.
>
> Against government by injunction.

> Opposition to the tariff, which is held responsible for the growth and perpetuation of monopolies.
>
> Election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people.
>
> Refers to the so-called "fifty-cent dollar" as being the salvation of the monetary situation.
>
> Government ownership of public utilities.

The National Committee of the Populist party began its second day's session at the St. James Hotel at 10 a. m. Thursday.

The platform adopted at Thursday morning's session.

The platform, which is styled an address "To the American people," omits any specific reference to the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, but contains this significant clause in reference to the money question:

"Our contention has never been for any God-ordained money metal, but for an increase in the volume of money sufficient to restore and maintain stability in the price level. It has been completely demonstrated that the party was right in the advocacy of the quantitative theory of money and this economic theory will probably never again be denied. There is no exception to the law of supply and demand. The quantitative theory is the application of this law to money. Although this question is now well settled, the money question remains as important as it has ever been.

"Money is the creature of law. Nothing can be legal tender money, except as the law makes it. Such a statement is no longer called anarchistic. It is an axiom so plain that no intelligent and well-informed man can seriously deny it."

Much bitter feeling has developed on the part of the delegates against William R. Hearst, who, according to the charges of several committeemen, is seeking, through Jay W. Forrest of New York to get control of the Populist party.

Forrest presented a resolution at Friday night's session providing for an indorsement of the work of the provisional committee of the conference, which recommended that the "Executive Committee of the conference be made up of the chairman of the People's Party National Committee, the chairman of the Federated People's Party clubs, the president of the Reform Press Association and the president of any other State or national reform organization in the United States in accord with the Springfield platform."

J. S. Felter, national committeeman from Illinois, and Sam W. Williams of Vincennes, Ind., made impassioned speeches protesting against the adoption of the resolution.

"The object of the resolution," said Mr. Williams, "is to change the name of the People's party and make it the Radical. To change the name means to haul down the flag.

"Take Away Influence."

"The object is to take our party and our influence away from us and leave the rest to those who fought for the Populist Party since its origin."

There was a heated interchange of words between Messrs. Williams and Forrest following the former's address. Several delegates jumped to their feet and demanded recognition from the chair. While the excitement was in progress a motion to adjourn was put and carried.

Chairman James H. Ferris, who opened the meeting, attacked William J. Bryan as a traitor "who has abandoned the silver platform, "and declared that he would never receive the support of the Populist Party.

The conference committee appointed to draft a platform is composed of A. W. Files, M. V. Nork, J. J. Halloway, A. C. Van Tyne, Fred J. N. Roberts, J. R. Norman, Jo A. Parker, R. Brewer, J. N. London, J. W. Williams, Jay W. Forrest, Dr. R. H. Remmelin, H. L. Bentley, J. M. Mallett and H. J. Mullins.

After a heated debate Thursday, the delegates, by a two-thirds vote, adopted the resolution which caused so much trouble at Wednesday night's session. It was amended, however, to provide that the question of merging the various parties into one, as indorsed by the present conference, shall be subject to the ratification of the national executive committee of the party.

PARALYZED BY SHOT FROM CAR, 'PHONES POLICE

Watchman, Mysteriously Hurt, Drags Himself Into Foundry Office.

BULLET WOUND IN HIP

Lavin Says He Saw Trio Riding on Box Car, Then Heard Shot.

THREE SWITCHMEN HELD

They Deny Being in Vicinity of Crossing When Train Passed.

Dragging himself, partially paralyzed from a mysterious wound, into the office of the American Car and Foundry Co. and painfully raising himself to the telephone, Private Watchman Owen Lavin called up Night Chief Wilson at 4 a. m. Thursday.

"Send a man here. I'm shot," he said. Then his fingers lost their grasp, the receiver dropped to his side and the man fell to the floor. Policemen Steinberg and Maher were sent from the Wyoming Street Station to the plant at 2800 De Kalb street, and there they found Lavin lying on the office floor.

Three arrests have failed to explain the mysterious shooting, which was done from the top of a boxcar.

Lavin was hurried to the City Hospital. He had been shot in the hip, the ball penetrating deeply. The wound is dangerous, as the watchman is 63 years old. He lives at 2462 De Kalb street.

Three on Top of Car.

At the City Hospital Lavin told the story of his experience to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

"I have charge of the clocks in the factory and have to ring them every hour. I was making my 2 o'clock round and had attended to all the clocks but three. One clock is just by the side of the private tracks of the car company, and after ringing it I noticed a train of cars coming. I hurried across the tracks so that I would not be delaying by waiting till the cars passed.

"There was no one in the neighborhood that I could see, except three men on top of one of the cars. They were men who worked in the yards and I knew them. One of them called to me as I started across the track.

"I did not stop, as I was in a hurry to finish my round. When I was about 15 feet from the tracks, I felt a severe pain in my right side, and heard a shot. I turned, but could see no one. I did not think I was shot, but when I put my hand to my hip I felt the wound.

"I hesitated a moment. The pain began to grow intense, and I knew I must do something at once. I knew where Mike, another watchman, would be at that time and I thought the best thing I could do would be to try to get to him.

"It was three blocks away, and the pain was becoming sickening. I put my hand to the wound to try to stop the blood, and walked as rapidly as I could toward Mike's station.

"When I got there I was almost exhausted. The pain was becoming dead and I felt weak. I told Mike what had happened, and he ran for a policeman. I went to a telephone in the office and called the chief. That's all I knew until the police came."

The police arrested Allen Owen of 5900 South Broadway, Albert Fagin of 1306 St. Louis avenue and Charles H. Schroeder of 5701 Pennsylvania avenue. They are switchmen and deny all knowledge of the affair, declaring that they did not even hear a shot. They were held at the Wyoming street station.

THE JULY EVERYBODY'S.

Vance Thompson Powerfully Describes the Russian Duma's Opening—Other Big Features.

The July number of Everybody's Magazine is especially remarkable for a vividly dramatic account by Vance Thompson of the opening of the Russian Duma. So timely is this story, and so powerful in its picturing of the assembling of the body in which the struggle-to-the-death between the puny Czar, strong only in his "divine right," and the dead-in-earnest representatives of Russia's 140,000,000 people, that the publishers of Everybody's split open their magazine, already printed and bound, when Thompson's manuscript was received, in order that the story might go to American readers with the red-hot immediateness which they demand. It is an astonishingly vital narrative, making the reader see as if with his own eyes the grotesque Czar, puppet-autocrat of all the Russias; the heavy-faced, sullen, determined deputies of the people; the blase, insolent, cigarette-smoking aristocracy; the gaunt, ambitious "intellectuals," waiting to play "Little Corporal" to the Russian Commune. And through all, and under all, is heard the ceaseless, menacing growl of the eternal "reds."

Even without Vance Thompson's story of the Duma's opening, however, the July Everybody's is an uncommonly strong number. The world-beating Japs and their ambitions are described by Charles Edward Russell; Merrill Teague tells of "Bucket-Shop Thieves" and their methods; Lawson reveals how the Massachusetts Legislature was bought like a peck of beans; there is an exquisitely pathetic story of Sophie Wright, "The Best Citizen of New Orleans," and nine other rattling good stories, making altogether one of the strongest and most readable numbers ever published.

FROG HUNTER PUZZLED.

East Side Officers in Doubt About Licenses.

Whether or not persons hunting frogs with the modern revolver gigs shall be compelled to pay a hunter's license, is perplexing City Clerk Williams of East St. Louis.

The question was raised by ex-Alderman Frank Holten, who visited the Cley Clerk's office Wednesday to inquire into the rights of the frog hunters. He explained that the new weapon has the appearance of a revolver, but instead of shooting bullets it shoots a gig about three feet in length.

COURT AWARDS BOY TO MOTHER

East Side Judge, in Hertz Case, Says Child Needs Its Mother.

KIDNAPED BY FATHER

Woman Later Took It From East St. Louis Home, but Surrendered.

A decision in the habeas corpus case of Mrs. Annie M. Hertz of 2813 La Salle street, St. Louis, against her former husband, Otto J. Baum of East St. Louis, for the custody of the 3-year-old son, Theodore, was rendered Thursday by Judge Moyers in the East St. Louis City Court, in favor of the mother.

"A little child needs its mother's loving care," said Judge Moyers. "If it stumps its toe, or any hurt comes to it, a child runs to its mother to be comforted. This mother should have her little son in her keeping."

"It's hard on the father," said Baum, with 3-year-old Theodore sitting on his knee in the courtroom. "And especially when the mother has married another man who's a saloon keeper. That's why I took our son away from her."

The couple had been divorced in the St. Louis Circuit Court April 3, and the custody of the child was awarded to the father. Later, by a signed agreement, Baum surrendered the boy to the mother.

Father Kidnaped Boy.

April 29 Mrs. Baum became the wife of Hertz, and shortly afterward Baum came to St. Louis and kidnaped little Theodore, taking him to East St. Louis. There he placed him with a family named Hopkins, living at Eighth street and Illinois avenue.

About three weeks ago Mrs. Hertz, accompanied by her sister, went to East St. Louis and called at the Hopkins residence. Mrs. Hopkins was hanging out clothes in the yard and Mrs. Hertz and her sister grabbed little Theodore and ran with him. They were pursued by Mrs. Hopkins, the chase attracting a crowd, and ending at the police station, where Mrs. Hertz surrendered the boy to Mrs. Hopkins. She then instituted habeas corpus proceedings. In rendering his decision Thursday, Judge Moyers notified Baum that he must be prepared to deliver little Theodore to Mrs. Hertz Friday morning. Baum, through his attorney, announced his intention of asking for a new trial or taking an appeal.

TETANUS KILLS ENGINEER

Crushing of Foot in Frisco Wreck Proves Fatal.

The funeral of Albert W. Wagner will be held at the Wagner home, 4329A Arco avenue, Friday afternoon. Burial will be at SS. Peter and Paul's Cemetery.

Mr. Wagner was 35 years old and an engineer on the Frisco system. He died of lockjaw resulting from an accident which occurred near Gratiot Station June 18. His engine was overturned when an embankment gave way, and he was caught under it. His foot was crushed and his body bruised, but his condition was not thought to be serious until tetanus developed. He is survived by his widow and two children, Ethel and Mabel.

Oddest Proposal on Record.

The strangest marriage proposal on record has just been made. It is unlike any other in the annals of courtship. It is the proposal made to the heroine of Max Pemberton's brilliant new novel, "The Lady Evelyn," which the Sunday Post-Dispatch will issue exclusively, in serial form, beginning next Sunday, and prior to book publication. "The Lady Evelyn" is third of the famous $150,000 series of great international novels.

Schirmer Will Sample Brews.

Emil Schirmer of St. Louis and Charles E. Gill of Callaway County have been appointed deputy beer inspectors under Inspector Marshall, to succeed Edward Drescher of Hannibal and R. C. Barrett of Potosi, resigned, and will begin their duties July 1. Miss Lotta Moffatt of St. Louis was appointed stenographer in the inspector's office.

JOHN A. SCHNEIDER AGAIN ARRESTED

Youth Charged With Attempting Petty Swindle at Boarding House.

John A. Schneider, aged 20, of 2001 South Jefferson avenue, was arrested Thursday on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Kate Maul of 919 Geyer avenue, charging him with attempted fraud.

Mrs. Maul says that Schneider came to her house Wednesday, giving his name as John Horton, and told her that one of her boarders, Frank Gutland, had just been injured at the Pioneer Cooperage Co.'s place, and had sent him for $1 with which to pay the physician who had attended him.

Mrs. Maul was suspicious and refused to give Schneider the money, and he then asked her for 50 cents, which was also refused. Mrs. Maul reported the case to the police later, and when Schneider was arrested identified him as the man of whom she had complained.

About a year ago Schneider was arrested, accused of the murder of a saloon keeper named Mutzberg, at Mississippi and Chouteau avenue. Two men with black handkerchiefs masking the lower part of their faces had entered Mutzberg's saloon and tried to rob him. When he resisted they shot and killed him. Jean Stark, of Mississippi avenue and La Salle street, who was in the saloon, identified Schneider as one of the masked men. Later he told Circuit Attorney Sager that he had a dream in which the murder of Mutzberg had been repeated, that the handkerchief had fallen from the face of the man whom he had thought was Schneider, that the face then revealed was not Schneider's face, and that, therefore, he would refuse to identify Schneider under oath as one of the murderers.

Despite the Circuit Attorney's protest against allowing a dream to exert such influence, Stark remained firm in his refusal, and, as he was the only eyewitness, the case was dismissed and Schneider was released.

Some time later Schneider was identified by a man named Schmoll, living on California avenue, as a burglar who had entered his house, but was frightened away. Attorney Sam Kohn, representing Schneider, thereupon shaved off his mustache, made himself up to look like Schneider, and had himself identified by Schmoll as Schneider in open court. The jury acquitted Schneider.

SINGER SUDDENLY LOSES HER VOICE

Miss Julia Bruer Stricken With Vocal Paralysis at the Odeon.

While Miss Julia Bruer, a well-known singer, was practicing in the Haynes studio at the Odeon Wednesday, a sudden paralysis of the vocal chords caused a failure of her voice, and at first aroused serious apprehension of its permanent injury.

The singer at once went to her home, and the family physician, Dr. Loeb, was summoned. He made a careful examination and reported that there was nothing serious in the sudden throat trouble and that she would be all right in a few days.

Miss Bruer will be remembered as the soprano of the Kellogg-Haines quartet which sang at the Alps during the week beginning Sunday, May 13. She has a voice of great purity and considerable range.
